AN IMPROBABLE STORY.

[Translated from the French of Alphonse Karr.]

—Zounds! this is one of those things which only happen to me.—Not quite, sir, answered the inn-keeper, for here on the other side of the street is a gentleman to whom the same thing precisely has happened. This gentleman reached here five minutes too late for the coach! Five minutes too late, sir; or if you like it better, forty-seven hours and fifty-five minutes too soon for the other coach, which will leave day after to-morrow—That is to say, that this confounded coach only passes before your hovel every two days.—Pardon me, it will repass to-morrow.—Ah!—But in the opposite direction; to return to the place which you came from. Besides, it is quite enough for the number of travelers there are.—What can one do in such a hole two days?—Why, sir, what you are doing—get angry, lose all patience, even swear a little, if that is agreeable, then breakfast, dine and sup in my house; it is what I have always seen those persons do who missed the coach.—That is, in fact, very diverting. * * What is this other gentleman? Is he some one of gentle blood?—What does that mean, sir?—Idiot! that means: Is he a gentleman?—I believe not, sir; he is too polite and too modest; he calls me sir, and has asked my permission to leave in my house a little valise which he carries with him * * * He is only a man.

The stranger appeared not to listen any more to the landlord, and examined his companion in misfortune, who, walking slowly on the other side of the street, seemed endeavoring to come to a resolution. His costume was simple: a traveling overcoat, buttoned up to his neck, thick shoes on his feet and a stick in his hand. Whilst he whose attention he was attracting was dressed with care, and with an elegance which only failed of distinction in the eyes of persons who know that a man very well dressed in a parlor, will only continue to be well dressed on a journey, or in a stage, or in the country, on condition of being so in a quite different manner. The stranger had on patent leather boots and straw-colored gloves, two fine pins were fastened to the cravat, instead of fastening the cravat, a gold chain carefully displayed descended from the neck to the waistcoat pocket. He made up his mind to cross the street, with the intention of asking his companion in this forced delay if he knew of any means of proceeding, and of not remaining two days in this inn. Probably he was going to commence his interpellation by "My good man," or by "I say, here!" when the distinguished face of the unknown made him feel that this formula would not be proper. He decided to say:

—It appears, sir, that you have, like me, missed the coach!

—Yes, sir.

—And you know that no other passes until day after to-morrow?

—Yes, sir.

—And you appear more resigned than I. You are happy.

—My happiness consists, perhaps, in having enough great troubles, to be little sensible of the small ones.

—Alas! sir, there are no small troubles but those of which we are unmindful; there is many any an old woman, who for the death of a paroquet gives vent to all the sorrow, which it would seem she should have reserved for the loss of a relation or a friend, and she is none the less unhappy for that. What do you expect to do?

—Wait, since we cannot do otherwise.

Then, having pronounced these words, the second traveler bowed politely to his interrogator, and continued his promenade in front of the inn. As to the latter, he returned to the inn-keeper and inquired the dinner hour. The dinner again brought together our two travelers, and with them several persons who, some on foot, the others in carriages, had come to wait for the passing of the next day's coach. Mr. Octavius found everything bad and asked for ice, and was as much surprised as indignant, when the waiter of the inn answered him that there was no more in the country since nearly three months—for they were then in the commencement of May, and that they hoped not to see any more before the month of November. It was the same thing with the toothpicks and the same with a bowl which Mr. Octavius asked for, with the intention, agreeably to the disgusting practice established within a few years in society, of making his ablutions at table. As to the other traveler, he found everything excellent, and appeared to make a very good dinner.

In order to occupy the evening, some of the men remained at the table; they made some punch, and they smoked. Mr. Octavius was enraged with his valet de chambre, who had neglected to put in his pocket some of his excellent little cigars, somewhat dear, it is true, but so perfect, and which he alone possessed. The other drew a handful out of his pocket and gave some to everybody. They were delicious. Mr. Octavius complained bitterly of being obliged to wait in this way for a petty cart; but, said he, there are, however, no means of traveling with one's horses on a road of some length, and in rather bad condition; at which the greater part of the persons present said to themselves: "It seems this gentleman has horses," and testified a greater amount of consideration for him, which did not put them to much expense, because they diminished by an equal amount that which they might have accorded to the other, who did not sufficiently conceal that he had come on foot.

I perceive here and a little too late, that I would have avoided many repetitions, if I had from the commencement of my narration made use of the excellent habit which dramatic authors have of giving at the beginning of their pieces a list of the surnames and christian names of their characters. The other traveler, to whom I give that name for the last time, which has already appeared oftener than it had any right, is called Henry. From time to time, the conversation returned to the subject of the road which they had to travel; it was an interest in common between all the travelers. One among them observed that this road, reputed detestable, would cease to be bad if, instead of having to ascend and descend a rapid declivity, they could make a circuit round this hill by taking a few yards from a sterile piece of ground which belonged to the Government, and yielded nothing to any one. Octavius blamed the Government, and said that on his return to town he would speak to the minister about it.

The next day, amongst the travelers was a young peasant who seemed very much distressed; his mother and sister had accompanied him as far as the coach came in order to remain with him longer. He was going to join a regiment to which he had been appointed. He was a poor devil whom fate had made a soldier. The only support of his widowed mother and his young sister, he had not been able to find any protection in the law, which only exempts from military service the eldest or only son of a widowed woman, without foreseeing the case where the eldest son might be a selfish hound, a worthless workman or a drunkard, while this younger maintained the poor widow by the fruit of his work. This was precisely what had happened in the young peasant's family. The travelers could not help being a little moved by the sorrow of these poor people, and when the young soldier said, weeping: It is not the military service which frightens me, neither is it the having to go to fight, but what cuts me to the heart is that you, my poor mother, and thou, my poor Elizabeth, are going to be reduced to beg your bread. Henry proposed to the travelers to make a collection, and when he held out his hat, this idea was so acceptable to every one, that several had already put their hands in their pockets. The hat being emptied, among the pieces of money which were found in it in tolerably great abundance, they found a double louis in gold; every one attributed it without hesitation to Octavius, who was without contradiction the most sumptuous of the assembled travelers, and they rested their opinion on the care he had taken to bury his hand in the hat when depositing his offering in it. Some one even said to another: "This gentleman who took up the collection has not, perhaps, given much; but it is he, nevertheless, who had the idea, and who, in a certain point of view, gave all the money." Octavius himself—who knew very well that he had not put in the double louis, and who had only plunged his hand so deep down into the hat to hide the smallness of his gift—Octavius was far from suspecting Henry, who had known how to hide even the care which he had taken to conceal himself; Octavius considered himself obliged to make a speech on what there was odious in thus depriving a whole family of its only support. He asked the mother of the conscript if she had made a reclamation to the authorities, because the eldest son or the only son of a widow. . . . . . She answered that her son had no right to this exemption, because she had another son older than he, who had quitted them and abandoned them long ago. Octavius took down the name and address of the widow, promised not to forget her, and said that he would consent to lose his name if in a month the young soldier was not restored to his family. The thanks of which he was the object, were only interrupted by the guard's summoning the travelers to take the coach. The departure was, however, still retarded for a few minutes by Henry, whom they went and notified in his room, whither he had gone again; he gave the inn-keeper a letter which he came and sealed by the kitchen fire, and which he requested him to send off without delay, which caused Octavius to say, with the approbation of the rest of the travelers, This gentleman really chooses his time well to think of his correspondence. Octavius took possession without ceremony of the best place in the coach; Henry mounted on top with the guard and the young soldier.

At the dining-place, he seated himself at table with the conscript in a corner of the hall. The next morning early, they arrived at the end of their journey. Some of the travelers got into another vehicle; some others had reached their destination. They separated, probably never to see each other again. Scarcely did any of them exchange a slight bow. Henry, who appeared to know the town perfectly, set out on his way to Mr. Riessain's house. For that purpose, he left the inhabited part of the town and passed through several streets where there were nothing but gardens in the midst of which rose here and there an isolated house. He was somewhat surprised when he met in one of these streets his traveling companion Octavius, who, behind him at first, did not long hesitate to walk beside him. Without any very serious motive for hiding his name or the object of his journey, Henry had no particular inducement to dispose him to confide in Octavius; besides, Octavius had spoken on the road of the town to which they were proceeding together as if he knew several persons in it, and the request which Henry had received from Mr. de Riessain to come and see him without speaking of his journey, whilst appearing to be confined to the persons of their acquaintance, had not however any limits sufficiently fixed for him to violate it without reason, and above all without an object. So, when Octavius bowed to him, and seemed to wish to enter into conversation, Henry commenced to slacken his pace, and at the first street where he had to turn, he stopped altogether to give Octavius time to continue straight forward. The latter stopped in the same way, and continued talking. Henry, after a few moments, bowed to him, and turned into the neighboring street. Ah! you are going that way? said Octavius. And, as it was his road, he continued to walk alongside of Henry. The same proceeding was renewed at the first street they came to; but then Henry determined to get rid of this obstinate traveling companion, resolutely took an opposite road to that which led to Mr. de Riessain's; then, when he found himself at the other end of the town, he stopped at a public square, and having asked Octavius which way he would keep on, he bowed to him, and took the opposite direction, quite decided as he was to have taken another if Octavius had taken that one; then, by numerous circuits, he regained Mr. de Riessain's house, where he found, pulling the bell, the same Octavius, whom he hoped to have lost in the town. Both smilingly exchanged a silent bow, and asked for Mr. de Riessain. They were introduced into a drawing-room, where Mr. de Riessain was not long in coming to find them. He received Henry almost like a stranger, and begging him to excuse him, he carried off Octavius into his study. A quarter of an hour passed, during which Henry, after having looked at all the pictures, after having counted the number of steps that could be taken in the parlor, in length as well as in breadth, began to find himself at a loss for new means of passing the time Mr. de Riessain entered, and cordially clasping his hand, said to him:

—At last, here we are together, my dear Henry, and here we are alone. You traveled with that hair-brained Octavius, and did not tell him your name. You did right.

—I did not tell him my name, but without knowing that I was doing right. What importance can that have?

—Why, a great deal, since he is looking for you?

—Really?

—And he only came here to ask me where you lived.

—But then, my dear Monsieur de Riessain, why not have told him. . . .

—He is looking for you to cut your throat.

—All the more reason; he would have no doubt told me why, which otherwise it will be impossible for me to guess.

—You will have no need to guess it, Octavius has fully enabled me to acquaint you with it. He saw my daughter this winter in I do not know what house where my crazy sister had taken her. He thinks he is in love He learned from my mouth on his first overture, that you were destined for each other, and naturally he wanted to kill you. What is most curious in this, is that Octavius d'Hervilly, who traveled with you—who came here with you—pretends to know you, and to have provoked you before several persons, on a pretext, says he discreetly, which can in nowise compromise my daughter; he adds that you were reconciled, but that this time the affair will go through to the end.———Why, how! cried Henry; Monsieur de Riessain, you have let him go, without giving me the opportunity to convict him of a mean, odious falsehood; you have made me lose this occasion of reaping with certainty, from him and his impertinence, a legitimate revenge!——Legitimate! It is impossible; but as to certainty, that is another thing. I have done better—I have avenged you—I have promised to be favorable to him in his wooing; I mean to second him with my daughter, and even consent to their union.——Pardon me, Monsieur de Riessain, said Henry; am I dreaming, by chance, or have I become crazy? Since I have put my feet in your house, I have absolutely understood nothing that I have seen or that I have heard. My meeting with this Mr. Octavius, whom I could not get rid of, has rather, in fact, the appearance of a nightmare than of an ordinary meeting. —— There is nothing in it, however, but what is very simple, my dear Henry; but I must first of all make you acquainted with a somewhat singular correspondence that I have intercepted. —— But, sir, I cannot, meanwhile, leave unpunished . . . —— Octavius d'Hervilly? . . . I tell you I take it on myself. —— But your manner of avenging me is more than strange, and I am in the habit of doing things of this sort myself. —— Will you grant me a quarter of an hour? —— Willingly. —— Well, seat yourself and listen!

[TO BE CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.]

Military Justice in the Pachaliks.

The Louisville Courier says:

We gave sometime back the history of the cowardly assassination of an old citizen of Mobile county, Alabama, by one Capt. Morris Schaff, U. S. A. It will be remembered that the old citizen, Col. Shepard, had a personal altercation with Schaff, and challenged him. Schaff had the old man arrested, and shot him while unarmed, unresisting, a prisoner under guard. For this act the coward was court-martialed. The result of this secret mockery, called a trial, we gather from the Mobile papers of January 3d

SENTENCE OF MORRIS SCHAFF.

The following in reference to the case of Capt. Morris Schaff, who killed Col. Shepard, of Mount Vernon, has been promulgated:

The charges against Schaff were: First, manslaughter; second, assault with intent to kill; to both of which the accused pleaded not guilty.

The findings of the Court were: First charge, not guilty; second charge, guilty.

Sentence.—Six months' imprisonment at Fort Pulaski, Ga., and $300 fine.

Schaff left Atlanta on the 30th ult., in charge of Major Dunn, of Gen. John Pope's staff, for Fort Pulaski.

Commenting on this the Times says:

The sentence inflicted by the military commission in this case would have been far better understood, had not that commission, after the first days' evidence had been published, suddenly excluded the public from the hall of their deliberations. As it stands now before the world, it is impossible to accept that sentence as seriously intended to inflict a punishment or in any way retrieve the character of Capt. Schaff from the deep stain inflicted on it by the publication of the evidence on behalf of the prosecution.

The evidence makes out, uncontradicted as it stands before the public, one of the most complete cases of manslaughter on record, and manslaughter is even a mild name for it. By that evidence—no provocation having been shown—a citizen, sixty-three years of age, is arrested in that summary manner, which is of itself an outrage on law; he is brought under guard within the precincts of a Federal citadel or armory, and before the officer to whom he is to be entrusted even has had time to inform him of the change, the superior of that officer rushes toward him, grossly abuses him, expresses his desire to shoot him on the spot, and the old man opening his breast and saying: "Shoot a disarmed man," the fatal shot is fired.

This is the case before the world, and a more flagrant homicide never was committed.

THE SHOOTING OF JUDGE BUSTEED.

From the Montgomery (Ala.) Mail, Dec. 29.]

It, as is plainly intimated by the Mobile press, the Radical District Attorney Martin was instigated to assassinate Judge Busteed for reasons not now apparent, it becomes the duty of the new military commander to investigate the facts of the case and discover whether the Judge has been made the victim of a conspiracy of which Martin was simply the weak and wicked instrument. The political bias of Judge Busteed since the development of recent events has not been a matter of doubt. He has shown himself honestly and firmly opposed to the schemes of Swayne, Horton & Co., to establish a negro government in Alabama in defiance of constitutional law. He dared to do his duty and incur the enmity of the secret leagues of Mobile by punishing the military Mayor, appointed by Pope, for violation of the civil rights law. The radical element of the State had determined to crush him if possible. And they found it would be expedient to crush him quickly. His court was in session at Mobile. A test case for appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States was being prepared for trial before him. That test case would have brought in question the constitutionality of the reconstruction laws and prevented the accomplishment of the designs of the Swayne-Horton party. No other certain test case could be prepared in time for the present term of the Supreme Court. The removal of Busteed and interruption of his Court, would in all probability be a main feature in the work of preventing an appeal to the highest tribunal of the land and of defeating the attempt to subject Alabama to the rule of the negro Radical party. Let the new commander put these circumstances together, draw the inevitable conclusion, and get upon the track of the real assassins of Busteed.

The Mobile Tribune, speaking of Martin, says: "Those who know him say that he is a very weak man; incapable of originating and carrying out unaided the bold and desperate undertaking which he has accomplished. But there are others besides Martin interested in the taking off of Judge Busteed just at this time; as well from a spirit of revenge for what he has done as of fear for what, as a fearless judge, he may do. If there be a plot under the late cowardly act perpetrated in front of the customhouse let the military take it in hand—trust nobody in the matter of ferreting short of a West Point graduate."

The Bankrupt Law and the Statutes of Limitation.

An important question has recently been decided in the United States District Court in New York, by Judge Blatchford, in reference to the effect of the Bankrupt act upon debts barred by the statutes of limitation of the State where the proceedings have been commenced. The complication appears to have arisen from the erroneous assumption that the statute of limitation extinguishes a debt, whereas it only effects the remedy; and if suit be brought in another State where the debtor happens to be caught by legal process, and where the limitation exceeds the usual period of six years, a judgment may be obtained. A discharge in bankruptcy will not protect the debtor in such suit, unless the creditor has had an opportunity to prove his debt before the Register.

The practice, as established by Judge Blatchford, is, therefore, as follows: All unpaid must be returned by the bankrupt, but the assignee must set up the defense non-assumpsit infra sex annos against barred claims, which will exclude from the distribution. The rule, practically only, goes into effect when the proceedings are commenced in States where the time within which suit on a simple debt may be brought is less than six years, for that period is not exceeded within any legal jurisdiction in America; or the rule may come into consideration as affecting acknowledgments of a debt barred by the statute, or cases where the operation of the law may or may not be suspended, according to the conflict of opinion between the tribunals of different States. At present, under the opinion of Judge Blatchford, creditors holding notes over six years old, are entitled to examine the debtor; and this is the only practical conclusion drawn from careful examination of the law, and the precedents.

MRS. JACKSON'S
Queen Bess Complexion Wash.

THE following certificates, selected from hundreds in the possession of the proprietress, are confidently submitted to the public:

MRS. WOLCOTT'S CERTIFICATE.
QUINCY, Ill., November 5, 1866.
MRS. JACKSON, Dear Madam—It is with pleasure that I certify to you, that seeing one of your circulars, which contained certificates and indorsements from the best physicians and the highest medical authorities of the United States, certifying that your oils for the complexion and teeth were purely the oils, extracts and essences of flowers, and they warrant it when used according to directions to cure the worst and most difficult cases of nursing, sore mouth, canker of the stomach, bowels and dyspepsia. For scrofulous disorders, when used both internally and externally, it has no equal. Dear Madam, seeing this, and my little daughter, aged fifteen months, having the whooping cough for several months, accompanied with what the doctors call white canker, her mouth and throat being terribly ulcerated, and I having tried everything for its relief I could hear of, all to no purpose, I bought one bottle of your oil for the complexion, called "Queen Bess," went according to the directions, did not use quite one bottle, and I am most happy to state to you that it has cured my child. She is now as well and hearty as ever she was in her life. I give you this, my certificate, hoping you will publish it, that thousands of others who may be afflicted with any of the above affections may at once get a bottle of your "Queen Bess," for I feel sure they will find immediate relief. Yours respectfully,
MRS. GEO. WOLCOTT,
Jersey street, bet. Sixth and Seventh.

MRS. WM. R. COLLINS' CERTIFICATE.
HANNIBAL, Mo., August 22, 1866.
MRS. JACKSON, Dear Madam—I am most happy to inform you that after having suffered more than three years with what some physicians call nursing sore mouth, or canker of the month and throat, I tried various remedies, but found nothing to do me any good until I heard of your oils for the complexion and teeth, called "Queen Bess." I bought one bottle, went according to directions, and am truly thankful to say I have found a permanent cure. Hoping you will publish this, that other poor sufferers may be benefitted by it, I remain,
Yours respectfully,
MRS. WM. R. COLLINS.

FASSMAN'S IRON TIES
—FOR—
COTTON BALES.

THE undersigned have made extensive arrangements to supply the demand for these Ties the present season.
In addition to the FASSMAN DIAMOND TIE and BUTTON TIE, so extensively used heretofore, they now offer his ALLIGATOR TIE, with teeth so arranged as to instantly clamp the hoop when the pressure is removed from the bale, and hold it without slipping.
Great pains have been taken to secure the best quality of Iron.
These Ties are so simple in their arrangement that they can be applied by any one, to bales of any size, with the same facility and expedition as rope. In strength, security and facility of application, they will compare favorably with any yet introduced.
The advantages of Iron Ties are now generally recognized; but it is deemed not out of place to call the attention of those interested to the very emphatic recommendation of Underwriters, Steamboat Captains, and Owners and Agents of Sea Steamers and Sailing Vessels, recently published in the newspapers in New Orleans.

PRINCIPLES GOVERNING THE CONDUCT OF THE APPEAL.

A Government of white men for white men; and no political miscegenation.

Loyalty to the Union of the States: Fidelity to the Constitution in its true extent and meaning: Obedience to and maintenance of all law, State and National, constitutionally enacted.

Resistance to Tyranny, Usurpation and Oppression, of one man or many; and to all encroachments upon the rights of freemen or of States, or upon the just and Constitutional prerogatives of any Department of the State or National Governments.

No Establishments of Military despotisms, no enthroning of martial law, no suspension of the writ of Habeas Corpus, no slaying of citizens by Military Commission, no interference with the Courts, no lettres de cachet, in time of peace.

Strict subordination of the Military to the Civil Power.

No standing armies of States in time of peace.

Restoration of disfranchised citizens to all rights and privileges of which they have been disseized; no prosecutions or disqualifications for political opinions; for the Past, oblivion of offences; for the Present and Future, Union, Peace, Law and Order.

Perpetual assurance to all freemen of the African race, of all the civil rights of freemen.

No Repudiation, by State or Nation, of any honest and lawful debt.

No revival of old party differences; but a Union of all Conservative men, of all former parties, who revere the Constitution, to restore the old land-marks of the Government.

No legislation to plunder one portion of the country for the profit of another portion.

Whatever is just; whatever is right; whatever is of good repute, and worthy of the descendants of English freemen.

CENTRAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE FOR THE DISTRICT OF WEST TENNESSEE.

The following named gentlemen are hereby appointed a Central Executive Committee for the District of West Tennessee:

Shelby County.—M. D. L. Stewart, Alfred T. Lacey, Jesse W. Page.
Weakley County.—William P. Caldwell.
Dyer County.—Charles Gibbs.
Gibson County.—Wise A. Cooper.
Madison County.—W. W. Gates.
Hardeman County.—Judge Miller.
McNairy County.—S. L. Warren.

With full power to appoint a Congressional Executive Committee for the 7th and 8th Congressional Districts of the State, with power to appoint Executive Committees for the several counties composing their respective Congressional Districts.

By order of the State Central Executive Committee of the Conservative party for the State of Tennessee.

THE LETTER LIST.

One of our evening cotemporaries takes us to task about the heading placed over the letter list published in the Appeal yesterday. The proof sheet was sent to the composition room by the Avalanche, and set up accordingly. We have heretofore refrained from boasting about our circulation, and do not consider this means necessary in order to bring the Appeal into notice.

THE COMPTROLLER AND THE BANKS.

Comptroller's Office,
Memphis, January 11, 1868. }

To the Public: An article in the Appeal this morning, headed "Balances due the City of Memphis by the following named banks and individuals," is calculated to do them great injustice. I know not where the figures were obtained—certainly not from this office.

Instead of the First National Bank being indebted to the city $30,740 38, the indebtedness is for collaterals to the amount of $5685 86 to secure the payment of that amount of city notes held by the bank, and for an item of greenback scrip $1667 50, which, I understand, was paid to the Treasurer a few days since, but not yet posted.

The Manhattan Savings Bank has a balance due it of $23 81; the Memphis City Savings Institute, $3610; the Memphis Insurance Company (styled bank), $5721 73; the Memphis German Savings Institution, $14 50; the Emmett Savings Institution, $3539 21; the house of Goodlett & Davie, $198 40; the Gayoso Savings Institution holds collaterals like the First National Bank above; the Desoto Bank, do; the Merchants' National Bank holds collaterals on account of a loan upon notes agreed sometime since to be made the city, and upon which some advances have been made; ex-Mayor Lofland has a balance due him of $183 50; Mr. Clark, Comptroller, has a balance due him of $25 57.

On looking over the article again, I perceive that the figures were obtained from the "Register's books." I keep my own books, and challenge investigation. His figures, I presume, answered the purpose of the party calling for them—else he would have called on this office—the proper place.

So far as the "banking business" has been carried on in this office, as stated with this fling, "repeated use of city warrants," I have only to say that I can show every warrant received over the counter, and the name of every person from whom it was received; and this done, I think, will settle the hash of that inuendo.

The custom of receiving warrants, against which the depositors checked as opportunities offered for selling their orders or checks, was established in this office long before I came into it, and was well known by the Board of Aldermen, and the business men of the city generally.

Respectfully, WILLIAM CLARK,
City Comptroller.

In reply to the foregoing communication, we have simply this to say:

The statement of balances published in the Appeal of yesterday was brought to us on Thursday, with the assurance of a responsible gentleman of good standing, that the balances stated appeared upon the Register's books. Desiring to be certain that there was no mistake, before publishing the statement, we requested another gentleman on whom we could rely, to ascertain whether the statement was correct. He did so, and furnished us with a duplicate of it, and we thereupon published it.

The question is not whether the Banks and individuals in question owed the balances stated on Saturday the 11th, but whether they owed them on Wednesday the 8th of January. We know very little about the mode in which the business of the Comptroller's, Register's and Treasurer's offices is conducted, and are not much enlightened by the statement of the Comptroller. So far as we are concerned we desire only to get at the truth in regard to this single point: Has it been the custom in the Register's office, to receive deposits of scrip, from Banks in this city, to be checked against by them for their convenience and to enable them to pay small or large amounts in scrip, by selling persons their checks instead of the scrip itself; and if so, were these Banks alluded to overdrawn, so that they could sell their checks instead of scrip when they had no scrip remaining on deposit?

And if this is so, how much HAD these banks overdrawn on the 8th?

If this was the habit it is quite evident that it was an abuse, for many reasons, one only of which need be mentioned,—that by means of this privilege of overdrawing, taxes could be paid without the amount of outstanding scrip being reduced, and that the scrip would consequently not appreciate in value, as it would if all persons having taxes to pay, were compelled to purchase the scrip itself, creating an increased demand for it, and diminishing its amount instead of buying checks. The sale of checks to a large amount, when no scrip was on deposit to meet them would of course keep down the price of scrip, to the profit of somebody; and would be a loss to the city, because, as it pays salaries in so much scrip as make them good to their nominal amount in currency, the city loses by the depreciation of the scrip, to the exact extent to which it ought to appreciate by the demand for it thus annulled.

That is the only charge we make. If it is not so, we shall be glad to correct it. But it is no reply to talk to us about collaterals. Have the Banks been allowed to overdraw on account of Scrip deposited? and if so, how much had any of them overdrawn on the 8th? We need not speak of the danger of such a practice, or of its illegality. These are manifest.

We understood yesterday that $40,000 had been paid in on account of the balances in question, since the 8th. And in this connection we note that there is for some cause such a sudden demand for Scrip that one of our Banks refused to sell it yesterday at 48 cents, and that, as we learn, one lot was sold at 60. It was at 32 or 33 at the time of the election.

There has been paid in since the publication of our article of the 11th about $40,000 on account of the aggregate indebtedness by banking institutions of this city, one alone of which has since deposited the sum of twenty-two thousand dollars.

We have frequently of late heard it rumored on the streets that several of our banking institutions were on their last legs; we therefore think they should ask favors instead of dictating terms.

A JUDICIAL OPINION.

[CONCLUDED FROM YESTERDAY.]

The Court, however, proceeded to say:

The remaining question to be considered is, do the specifications and charges stated in the return under the acts authorize the Commanding General to cause the petitioner to be arrested and put upon his trial before the military commission?

It is insisted that the arrest was in violation of that provision of the constitution which guarantees the freedom of speech and the press. I have no hesitancy in stating that the freedom of both are as fully guaranteed to the citizens of this as of any other State in the Union, to discuss and criticise any public measure and the official acts of those intrusted with either the making or execution of the laws; but this does not sanction any abuse made of either, and leaves the speaker or publisher liable to any penalty prescribed by law, for such abuse. It is admitted that the publications are libelous, and that under the laws of the State they would subject the petitioner to indictment, and if found guilty, to punishment by fine and imprisonment; but it is insisted that this conviction can only be had by a jury, and the judgment pronounced by a proper Judge under the constitution and laws of the State, but we have seen that none such exists, except those equally subject to the control of the Commander of the District, and under the act it is left with him to choose the tribunal.

I am therefore constrained to come to the conclusion that the offence is one upon which he is subject to arrest and trial before the military tribunal. This is an offence against the public peace, one of the very objects which the Commander is enjoined to preserve.

Any conservator of the peace for the purpose of preventing a breach thereof, or to prevent the commission of a crime, may arrest the party. No one, however, can be punished for any but an offence against the laws, and the law must be in force before the act is committed. I take it that the laws affecting the peace of society, at least those in force before the attempted act of secession, are still the laws of the State, and I will further say that, in the absence of any law-making power in the State, the Commander of the District who, we have seen, to a certain extent, is entrusted with all the powers of government in the State, may for the attainment of the objects with which he is charged under the act by order first made public, declare that certain acts when committed shall be taken as violations of the law, and a penalty annexed thereto.

All which amounts to this: "A libel is an offence against the law. It is an offence against the public peace, for which the party might be tried by the ordinary Court of Criminal Justice, and by a jury, and give the truth of the libel in evidence in his defence. But Congress had the power to deprive him of these rights, and to authorize the officer libelled to arrest him and try him by a Military Commission." That is all the argument there is in the opinion. But the Judge goes further out of his way to declare that the Commanding General may create new offences and fix the punishment for them: although it does not appear that General Ord had, "by order first made public," declared that to libel himself should be thereafter a crime. It follows that he could declare it to be a crime to advise the people to vote against reconstruction, or to question the wisdom or patriotism of Congress. That, of course, is to declare that he may annihilate the liberty of the Press, and efface the last vestiges of liberty.

The whole opinion, therefore, is a simple assertion of the power of Congress to establish despotisms and empower them to create new offences and try men by Military Commissions. To demonstrate this, it would have been necessary to examine the whole question as to the possibility of the lawful exercise by Congress of powers outside of the Constitution. The argument of the opinion is wholly wide of the question: and a decision of the Supreme Court, which was binding on the Judge, had decided that the power claimed does not exist.

Finally, the Judge undertook to show that the proceeding by Military Commission was marvelously proper and well guarded. He said:

Congress has not, however, as is contended, left the citizen to the mercy of the commander or any arbitrary oppression he may make; but has in the first place left to the citizen the power of the Federal Courts and Judges, through the writ of habeas corpus, a remedy against lawless oppression, and has by the act conferring the power, prescribed its limits. The accused is secured a speedy and fair trial, and if convicted is not to be subject to cruel and unusual punishment. Therefore where the accused is continued under arrest for an unreasonable time, or is subject to any other punishment than that prescribed by law, or of any other act of oppression, by those entrusted with the execution of the powers conferred, it will become the imperative duty of this Court or either of its Judges upon application to grant the proper relief.

In giving a liberal construction to this act, (and by the act of July 17th, it is declared that such shall be done, for the attainment of its object), I am satisfied that it was the intention of Congress that the accused should, as far as possible, have a fair, speedy and impartial trial; if before the Commission, that those who compose it shall be without prejudice or partiality—they being substituted for the jury; that the Judge Advocate shall see that the law is properly administered; that the trial shall be public; that the accused shall be furnished with the charges against him; that if required by him the witnesses for the prosecution should confront him; that he shall have the right to counsel for the defence; and and the attendance of witnesses for his defence, and to any defence he could have under the law before the Courts. It is further provided that the record shall be examined and the judgment approved by the Commander before the infliction of any punishment, and that it shall require the approval of the President, before capital punishment is inflicted. It may be supposed that those who passed the act, believed that domestic disturbances and crime could be best suppressed by the Commanding General and his subordinates who might be presumed to be impartial, and more efficient. Whether in this they were right or wrong it is not for this Court to declare.

Congress has left the citizen to the mercy of the Commander, and of arbitrary power. If the principles announced by the Judge are correct, an appeal to the Federal Court is useless. The Commanding General has the right, according to the Opinion, to try a citizen for any offence against the State laws, or against the statutes enacted by himself, by a Military Commission, without a jury. No Court has any control or power of supervision over the proceedings of those tribunals, or power to enforce any of the rights of the accused, enumerated by the Judge. Under General Thomas' construction of the law, any breach of any law of a State—profane swearing, even—is a breach of the parole of a Confederate, because the condition of his parole was that he should obey the laws of the State. According to the argument in Milligan's case, war still exists in the Provinces.

Congress did not mean that a liberal construction should be given the Reconstruction Acts in favour of the citizen. It meant just the reverse:—that they should be liberally construed against him, and to enlarge the grant of powers to the despotisms which they established. What if the enumerated rights are intended to be guaranteed? If they are all denied the party, the remedy is by appeal to the Tyrant himself, (who may be, as in this case, the party aggrieved or libelled), unless the sentence is of death. In that case only, the President can interfere. In all this, there is nothing of the protection of the law, but only that of the capricious clemency of the despot. The General may send his libeller, to be his victim, before a tribunal appointed by the breath of his favour, and responsible only to him. It condemns, and the General approves; and if there is any appeal, it is only to an Imperial Despot, the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, above all law. Judge Hall might have spared the people of Mississippi this last insult.

While a Judge thus fawns at the feet of power, and darkens counsel by words without wisdom and arguments that shoot far off into the void, a soldier shames the obsequious tribunal, by the following order, issued in a neighbouring Province:

Headquarters Fifth Military District, }
New Orleans, January 1, 1868. }
General Order No. 1.]

Applications have been made to these headquarters implying an arbitrary authority in the Commanding General touching purely civil controversies. One petitioner solicits this action, another that, and each refers to some special consideration of grace or favor which he supposes to exist, and which should influence this department.

The number of such applications, and the waste of time they involve, make it necessary to declare that the administration of civil justice appertains to the regular courts. The rights of litigation do not depend upon the views of the General; they are to be adjudged and settled according to the laws. Arbitrary power, such as he has been urged to assume, has no existence here. It is not found in the laws of Louisiana or Texas, it cannot be derived from any act or acts of Congress, and he is restrained by the Constitution and prohibited from action in many particulars.

The Major General commanding takes this occasion to repeat that, while discharging judicial functions in civil causes, he can suffer no forcible resistance to the execution of the process of the courts.

By command. W. S. HANCOCK,
Major-General Commanding.
General Hartsuff, A. A. G.

LATE NEWS.

—Geo. McKnight has commenced a literary paper in New Orleans, to be known as the Weekly Mercury.

—The Vicksburg Times states that Messrs. Simms and Williams, of Lake Providence, visited their city in search of one Thomas H. Harrison, late agent of the Freedmen's Bureau, who had duped his colored "loil" friends out of $10,000.

—The Nashville Gazette has the following in regard to the sudden death of W R. Lucas: In our last we mentioned the murderous assault made on our well known citizen W. R. Lucas, as he was on his way to market Tuesday morning. We regret to chronicle that he died from the effects of the blows received. The whole affair is still a mystery, some persons contending that apoplexy was the cause of his death, and being suddenly attacked with the same, he fell from his wagon, which explains why the bruises were on his head and face. The County Court yesterday adopted a resolution authorizing a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of the murderers.

—The Clerk of the House of Representatives, Monday, furnished to that body a statement showing that the entire expenses of the Judiciary Committee, in connection with the impeachment question, were $23,190. Among the items is $300 paid Mr. Ashley for messengers, to visit Quebec and other parts of Canada, to procure evidence.

—The revolution in popular sentiment still progresses, as will be seen by the following from McMinnville: "That thriving little city of the mountains, McMinnville, has followed nobly in the wake of Memphis. Last Monday, Samuel Henderson, Conservative, was elected Mayor at that place over Johnson, Radical, by a handsome majority. The defeated candidate hails from Ohio, and was a Major in the Federal army, but for reasons, doubtless satisfactory to themselves, the darkies couldn't swallow him."

—The Knoxville Press and Knoxville Herald have been consolidated under the name of the Knoxville Daily Press and Herald.

—At the annual meeting of the Caledonian Society of Nashville, held Monday evening, the following persons were elected officers of the Society: Dr. Geo. Blackie, President; Matthew Henderson, Vice-President; Geo. Hutchinson, Secretary; J. M. Sinclair, Treasurer; David Grewar, John Douglas and Peter McMicken, Counsel.

—A gentleman from Knoxville informed the Chatanooga Republican that a party of six were drowned at Loudon, on Saturday evening, by the upsetting of a boat. The people were going across the river to church, when a wave from the steamer Cherokee caused the boat to upset, and the whole party were drowned.

—Another instance of the benefits of reconstruction: On Saturday last a large meeting of negroes took place in Albany, Georgia, and incendiary addresses were made by colored orators, to the effect that if they were likely to lack food, it was easy to rob the stores and shoot down cows and hogs upon which to subsist. The orators insisted that the whites had money with which to pay the past high prices for labor, and that all the freedmen had to do, in order to secure high wages, was to "hold on" and insist upon the prices of last year. In other words, they were advised to rob and plunder for a subsistence, and to do so rather than work at such prices as farmers can afford to day.

GENERAL NEWS.

—One would suppose greenbacks scarce in Brandon, according to the following item from that sterling paper, the Brandon Republican:

We have never known money so scarce and hard to get as at the present time. We would just as soon try to stop a pair of lovers from getting married, climb to heaven on a ladder made of clouds, swim a race with a steamboat from New Orleans to Cairo, chase a streak of lightning through a thorn bush, stop an old maid from gossiping, go to sleep with a room full of tom-cats, make a nigger smell sweet, or find an honest Black Republican, as to undertake to collect a hundred dollars in the town of Brandon.

—The Mobile Advertiser says that at no time in the history of the South was the absence of a knowledge of the mechanic arts more severely felt than within the last seven years. People are beginning, however, to have their eyes opened to the dignity and importance of labor, and the great value of the mechanic to the body politic. The Richmond Examiner also offers sound advice on this subject, and says: The skilled man, with tools at his command, is in most respects master of the situation. But the clerk, the bookkeeper, the office attendant are helpless. They must wait many and many a weary day until the seasons or the years of depression are over before they can find that employment for their pens which they have unfortunately made their sole means of livelihood.

—The time prescribed in the order of Gen. Ord for the postponement of sales under execution, expired on the first of this month. Many of the papers throughout the State urge a renewal of the order.

—The Grenada Sentinel contains another instance of military usurpation—where Maj. Allyn, an obscure individual, commanding the post at Grenada, not satisfied with filling an honorable position as a Major in the Regular U. S. army, seeks notoriety by following in the footsteps of some of our political military heroes—by taking a prisoner out of the hands of the civil authorities, placing him in confinement at the camp, refusing bail, and stating he did not recognize the civil authorities!

The Brave Wife of an Ignoble Husband.

Some weeks ago Fred. Douglass, the famous nigger, made a speech in West Chester, Penn., to a mob of blacks and others. Previous to his arrival, Hon. John Hickman, a member elect to the Assembly, invited the sable orator to make him a visit, and consider his house a home during his stay, which invitation Fred duly accepted. Hickman at once put his best chamber in order and made extensive preparations for his guest, in spite of all that his wife could do or say. But she bided her time. A woman, especially when she is in the right, is never without resources. So, when the great Douglass was announced and, with hat in hand, was making his most elaborate bow, she met him at the parlor door, and peremptorily ordered him out of the house. He did not "stand upon the order of his going, but went at once!" Long may Mrs. Hickman rule the mistress of her house; and, in the good time coming, when women get their "rights," may she be sent to the Assembly by the voters of West Chester in the place of her unworthy husband. Bully for Mrs. Hickman!—Southern Opinion.

—The English people, above all others, have been ready to denounce the petty German potentates for deriving a revenue from the licensing of gambling houses. It would appear, however, from a conversation in the House of Lords lately, that England herself is not innocent in the matter. The British Government, in 1855, conceded to a society of gamblers at Heligoland a lease for sixteen years for a consideration. This small island—a British possession at the mouth of the Elbe—is much frequented by pleasure-seekers and bathers from Hamburg. At Hong-Kong, it would appear, there are also numerous licensed houses, and a correspondence has been going on between the Colonial Office and the Governor of the Colony as to enlarging the contract, with the Chinese gamblers.

AUNT FRISBIE BECOMES CONSERVATIVE.

[From the Diary of Didymus Peck.]

For some several days after the Pan-Wranglican Convention, at the Greenlaw Opera House, where Dr. Beecher's practice in the "black vomit" father superseded that of Dr. Shaw's, (and yet 'twas pretty much all "tweedle-dum" and "tweedle-dee,") my dear Aunt Frisbie contemplated her only nephew, very "dubersomely," over those oxbowed spectacles, which she bought at Sodderville, fifteen odd years ago, to read the Boston Liberator on the Anthony Burns riot.

She ought not to have been "dubersome" as to me. She owed me what I conceived to be a ponderous debt of gratitude for acting, voluntarily, as her escort on occasion of that memorable obfuscation of tongues, brains and decency; but somehow or other, the squeezing she got amongst Beecher's Nonconnah delegation on the stairway, "riled up" the good lady's amiability.

Then it so happened, during a terrific surge of sovereignty that struck us abaft on that same stair-case, that she got her new Yarbtown "bunnit" almost hopelessly embarrassed in the coat-tails of a seedy Ethiopian just in front of us. This pleasing little incident rather disconcerted Aunt Frisbie's equanimity and olfactories; and might, possibly, have shaken her principles—rather think from the sequel that it did.

But it was no fault of mine. I could'nt possibly have avoided it. It was her own "doins" that she got so knocked about and "jounced up." And she said, herself, that she had never seen the like either at Sodderville or Yarbtown,—nor "smelt it either," as I inadvertently suggested.

But this wasn't all. When we finally reached the landing place, and the venerable philanthropist swung around, as it were into an eddy of the "Black Sea," surveying her ruined millinery and wiping the perspiration from her humanitarian countenance, with a snuff colored bandanna, and a shout came up from the writhing mass below,—"Bully for you, old gal!" She never quite forgave it in me—at least she was a considerable while forgiving it. She said the "seelect men" of Sodderville would never have allowed such a breach of courtesy, especially to a tried friend of suffering humanity, whose name was immortalized on the archives of her township, as Secretary of the first Abolition Society ever held in the "dees-trict."

But how was it fault of mine? It was her expressed wish and set purpose, while in this unhappy vicinage, to look upon the "new element" in all the magnificence and concentrated odoriferousness of his reconstructed state, and the Pan-Wranglican Convention was just the place for that sort of an exhibition.

I sacrificed my evening's study—my quiet smoke, my dominos with cousin Gertrude, my gentle Magnolia's music, my nutmeg, sugar, etc—all to do the agreeable to my revered and excellent aunt—and I couldn't clearly see why mine own unspotted innocence should be aspersed; because neither the prelude, programme nor performance harmonized at all with the good lady's anticipations. Nor when three draymen, five rag-pickers and six scavengers loomed up before us in all the forbidding plenitude of Ethiopian freedom, standing upon neighbor Greenlaw's cushioned seats, with a hundred weight of DeSoto street mud upon their aggregated boots, and refusing with an emphasis verging on profanity, to "set down in front," I could appreciate Aunt Frisbie's insinuation that I was a "rebel sympathizer," and "never oughter brought her there!"

Neither could I divine why I, of all others, should incur the wrath of my benevolent relative, if, in the hubbub and turmoil of that unpent commotion, no opportunity offered to present the gratulatory resolutions which Aunt Frisbie had brought all the way from Vermont, to animate the courage of the late down-trodden, and assure them that Yarbtown and Sodderville would "go for 'em next election."

Nor did the simple fact that the volcanic uproar of that opaque chaos afforded to a magnanimous aunt so slim a chance to solicit subscriptions for the Yarbtown Regenerator and National Emetic, quite satisfy an unsophisticated nephew with the deprecating demeanor of his Green Mountain guest; although to that paper, by the way, more than thirty years ago, in the virginal exudation of her poesy, Aunt Frisbie contributed the celebrated stanzas of "Poor Slave in the Gum-tree, by Bloodhounds Beleaguered."

But so it happended, after all our mishaps, eclipses and occultations, to and from and at the Pan-Wranglican Convention, that my dear aunt seemed not to be, for quite a number of days, the same stocking-darning, rip-sewing, bread-poultice and squills giving angel of mercy that she "used to was." And when I returned home on election night, or sometime during the small hours thereafter, and announced that the great and good Dr. Beecher had been sent up Salt river, so far that the very existence of that classic stream would henceforth be to him involved in all the mystery of a geographical problem, my lady with the ox-bowed spectacles seemed for the moment to forget that by the sacred ties of consanguinity she was indeed a Peck and of the tribe of Didymus. I read the returns to her over our coffee at breakfast, but her appetite ran not in that direction. I told her that Barbour Lewis and all the "shining lights" of Radicalism who had been herding the negroes for six months and manipulating the wires for the gentleman from Onarga, were all now exulting in the defeat of their own standard-bearer; and that to tell the honest truth, not a man was to be found who had not worked, bloviated, treated, been treated, or expected to be treated, for Dr. Leftwitch. The good woman attempted to deny the "soft impeachment," but she finally became convinced that she was in Memphis, and not in Yarbtown, neither in Sodderville, and that "revolutions," which, as she claims, "never go backwards," may in this case have gone a little more "forwards" than she had "any idee of."

The fact of it is, Aunt Frisbie was an original Abolitionist. Down in Yarbtown, "they call 'em" Garrisonians. Thirty-five years ago, she was given to the distribution of Abolition almanacs and Emancipation primers. She had known Abbey Foster in the zenith of her negro philistic fame. Once upon a time, when Didymus Peck was at his penna pennae pennam, in the Latin School, she visiting the "hub," was honored with a seat on the platform in old "Fannil" Hall, at a Wendill Phillips' love-feast.

At Yarbtown she had been for many years the foremost agitatrix in all measures tending to the disenthralment of the enslaved.

When the vanguards of freedom left the "punkin-pies" and "dried applesarse" of New England, to plant humanity upon the prairies of bleeding Kansas, she subscribed a whole Sharpe's rifle to the Gospel fund.

Aunt Frisbie, too, was of the gentle brood who wanted the pious Mexicans to welcome our American armies to the hospitalities of their grave-yards, and when the boys had their first frolic in the halls of the Montezumas, she helped drape in mourning the old Congregational Church at Yarbtown.

When the martyred John Brown "evacuated" Virginia, she wrapped her best black silk around the liberty pole that stood in front of Obed Slocum's grocery.

In 1856 she was President of a "Jessie Circle," and happening over to Sodderville, was presented with a banner, inscribed "Free-mount, Free-dum, and Free-niggers."

In 1861, when Ft. Sumter was fired on, she stood upon the porch and waved the stars and stripes, (book-store edition,) as the Sodderville train passed by.

In 1862, she earnestly advocated the hanging of old 'Squire Stoggins, because he denounced the war as an Abolition crusade.

In 1862, she earnestly advocated the suspension of old 'Squire Stoggins from a "sour apple tree," because he characterized the war as a "dummed Abolition crusade."

But at last, as I have intimated, a change began to work upon the spirit of her dreams. Her's became a fermented spirit: and a spirit, in the way to be lost, was saved.

Gertrude, Magnolia and Didymus celebrated the conversion with all due honors. It was a night ever to be remembered, as at least a small item in the "profit and loss" account of Constitutional Liberty, and will ever carry with it the reminiscence of headache peculiar to all great holidays.

Magnolia presided at the festival. The estrangement which had so long existed between herself and Aunt Frisbie, was forsworn forever, in potations very creditable to the female persuasion. Reunion of North and South in the representatives present, was effected in less time than it takes Congress to adjourn for Christmas. All the constituent parts of the Peck family were remembered on the occasion, and a resolution passed that we were all reconstructed, including Jedidiah, who still was a "pastur" and "meddar" and raises hops near Goffstown, New Hampshire; Eldad, who is delving for specie payments among the mountain ranges of Idaho; "good-for-nothing Bill" who is grazing cattle in Upper Texas, and dear little Simon, who wears the surplice and gown far out upon the seas among its remotest islands. That night, thanks to Cousin Gertrude, sister Magnolia, Aunt Frisbie, and especially to the Pan-Wranglican Convention, we were all one again—God grant forever.

The dear woman left for the ice-clad hills of Vermont only a day or two ago. These were the last words she said as she stepped aboard the Louisville train:

"It's a long, long spell since you have heard anything to cheer up your heart from the old Green Mountain State, but Didymus, don't be surprised to hear a little Democratic thunder even in that direction, 'tween now and the next Presidential election; and when you do, jest think of your old Aunt Frisbie, and give her credit for some of the lightnin'."

THE CONVENTION.

WIND VS. GAS.

INCENDIARY DOCUMENTS.

Jackson, January 11.—The Convention was called to order, when the President read the following letter from the Superintendent of the Gas Works of this city:

Mr. President, and Gentlemen of the Convention:

The City Gas Works, owing to the limited number of consumers, are scarcely able to meet their regular monthly expenses, hence the necessity of prompt payments. I, therefore, ask that a deposit be made by the Convention sufficient to cover the amount of gas which may be consumed during the session, or that some personal security be given for the amount.

Mr. Woodmansee offered a resolution that the Convention appoint a committee of three to wait upon the State Treasurer, and ascertain the condition of the State finances, and consider upon the best means of providing for the expenses of the Convention. The resolution was carried.

After much discussion it was resolved to print the proceedings of the Convention in the Vicksburg Republican, Jackson Journal and Meridian Chronicle, and allowing each the rates paid by the United States for Government printing. The vote on this question was reconsidered and a substitute was offered, that a Committee be appointed to ascertain the cost of such publications in the papers named. In the debate which ensued, Mr. Watson said that if the object of publication was to inform their constituency, the papers mentioned were not the kind they read; but he opposed the whole scheme, until it was ascertained definitely what the cost would be.

Barry replied that Watson's constituency read only such papers as were opposed to the Government. It becomes us to patronize such persons alone as are in favor of equal and exact justice to all men. The gentleman could understand now as well as a week hence that we intend to pass any and all measures required to make the work of the Convention a finalty.

Mr. Mygatt offered a resolution that the thanks of this Convention be tendered to the Congressional Committee for presenting this body with a volume of the manual of the Constitutions of all the States with amendments.

Townsend offered a resolution embodying the idea that in the Constitutions of all but six States the word "white," and in three of the remaining six States, property and educational qualifications governed the right of suffrage. We should not follow the example thus laid before us and thank the Congressional Committee. He went on to remark that in tabling this resolution it would be equivalent to informing Congress that this Convention wanted no such incendiary documents as the Constitutions of Northern States.

The substitute was tabled by a vote of 68 to is and original resolution adopted. Convention adjourned.

Excursion Train Thrown from the Track.

Special Dispatch to Memphis Appeal.]

Burnsville, Miss., Jan. 11, 9:30 p.m. The excursion train from New Orleans broke the axle of their tender near Vaughn's Station, on Mississippi Central railraod, and threw all the passenger cars into the ditch. No particulars have been received up to this time.

ARKANSAS.

SEATS CLAIMED.

Convention not Authorized by the Constitution.

SATRAPS SOLE ARBITERS.

State Pays the Fiddler.

Treasury Warrants, Etc,, Etc.

Special Dispatch to Memphis Appeal.]

Little Rock, January 11.—Convention met. Reynolds, of Canton, and Mallory, of Jefferson, were qualified and took their seats.

Hodges, of Pulaski, offered a communication of Tony Jassard claiming a seat in the Convention, and moved to qualify, but Hodge, of Pulaski, objected. Gantt moved as a substitute, to refer the communication to the standing Committee on Elections. Duvall thought the commanding General was empowered to determine the validity of elections, and had awarded the seat claimed to Adams, and the Convention had no right to give it to another person. Brooks thought the Convention could determine. He was lately told by the Register that Toney was elected by eight votes. Cypert thought it would be anomalous to recognize Toney's claims by reference to a committee without credentials.

Kyle (Radical) said the Convention had not assembled by a vote of the majority of the State proper, nor does it exist under the State Constitution. It was authorized only by Congress, and the commanding general was the sole arbiter on elections.

Wilson said that Gen. Schofield's referring contested cases in Virginia to the Convention of that State was a precedent. The substitute of Mr. Gantt was adopted.

Hollis of Calhoun was then sworn in.

Cypert called the attention of the President to the fact that the name of Mr. Bradly, who moved for the appointment of a Committee on the Penitentiary, did not appear on that committee. It being moved by him, it was supposable that particular information was desired on the subject.

Bradley desired no distinction between races. He was satisfied to discuss reports of Gantt on Parliamentary usages. To ignore this would gratify petty spite. The Convention was notified that the President had ruled Gantt out of order. The Chair would exercise his rights and shoulder the responsibility.

Mr. McClure, from the Finance Committee, submitted an ordinance providing for the imposition of a tax of one half per cent. on all taxable property. It was also provided that the State Treasurer should defray the necessary expenses of the Convention, the State officers to collect and pay into the Treasury by the first of June, and if the funds are not available, he should issue Treasury Warrants for the amount due members; the collectors of taxes to receive the treasury warrants in payment of tax levied by this ordinance, or any debts due the State; that the Auditor be required to apportion among the counties a proportion of the taxable property.

Hinds moved to refer the memorials and ordinances. Withdrawn.

Cypert moved that it be made the special order of Monday, and ordered to be printed. Motion adopted.

Hutchinson's resolution that no member should speak longer than twenty minutes, was, after debate, laid on the table.

Sanbear's resolution to add two additional members to the Committee of Apportionment, was adopted.

Mr. Smith's resolution, inviting Gov. Murphy and Gen. Smith to seats in the Convention, was adopted, after which the Convention adjourned.

FROM LOUISVILLE.

Louisville, January 11.—The river has fallen four inches. The weather is clear and very windy. The Cora S. left for Memphis. The Belle leaves to-morrow for New Orleans.

FROM NEW YORK.

New York, January 11.—The Hamburg ship Liberty, from Hamburg, has arrived at the quarantine station. She had one hundred and five deaths from cholera during the passage, and has thirty-five cases on board now.

A Washington special to the World says the Judiciary Committee has prepared a bill declaring that in cases testing any law passed by Congress, two-thirds of the whole number of Judges of the Supreme Court only shall affect a decision, and reducing a quorum of the Court from six to five.

FROM NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, January 11.—The Fair Grounds were closed to-day, on account of the inclemency of the weather.

Gen. Mower has been ordered to report to Gen. Buchanan for duty, with his regiment.

The Convention, in its session last night, adopted articles from 67 to 72, inclusive, disposing of the State officers, and to-day proceeded to the judiciary, discussing the Supreme Court question, but adjourned without accomplishing anything.

FROM RICHMOND.

Richmond, January 11.—In the Convention to-day a preamble and resolution declaring the proceedings of the Convention usurpative, and adjourning that body sine die, was laid on the table. Another to cut down the pay of members to four dollars, after the first of February, was also tabled. Another disfranchising some classes disfranchised by the Alabama Constitution, and one taxing all land three dollars per acre was referred. The rest of the session was spent in discussing a resolution embodying a recognition of duty in the bill of rights.

Beast Butler speaks here Monday night.

FROM ATLANTA.

Atlanta, Ga., Janurry 11.—The Convention is almost exclusively employed in debating the resolutions petitioning Congress to remove the present officers, or else give the Convention the power to do so, with authority to fill the vacancies thus made, and pending which, the Convention adjourned.

Gen. Meade has issued an order validating the ordinance to stay the collection of debts in Alabama up to the 1st of January, 1869, except the claims for labor and hire adopted by the late Convention in that State, to take effect from and after Tuesday; and further ordering that the several officers, judicial and otherwise, respect and obey this order. A similar order is looked for as to this State, when the Convention adopts the permanent relief ordinance.

There is considerable excitement to-night over the report, based on high authority, that Gov. Jenkins has been removed, and Gen. Dunn, formerly of Pope's staff, appointed Governor.

FOREIGN.

Paris, January 11.—In the army bill an article obliging every Frenchman to serve in the national guards was adopted. An amendment exempting the infirm from the operations of the article was opposed by M. Rohere.

London, January 11.—The Atlantic Telegraph Company has issued a loan of £1,250,000 for the purchase of the two cables of the Anglo Telegraph Company and to pay off their own indebtedness.

London, January 11.—A man who has been lurking disguised and under an assumed name, in unfrequented places, has been arrested in the county of Cork, and it is expected that he will prove to be the celebrated Col. Michael Donnelly.

Paris, January 11.—The King of Prussia, on New Year's day, sent Napoleon a cordial autograph note, which was answered in the same conciliatory spirit. Quiet prevails on the Bourse since, and Rentes are firm and higher.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, January 11.—Pomeroy presented a petition from Jessie Benton Fremont, praying that her property in San Francisco, seized by the military, be restored to her.

Sumner introduced a joint resolution, reporting that the XVIth Article of the Constitution having been ratified by three-fourths of the States, that Congress declare it valid to all intents and purposes. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Doolittle gave notice that when Merton's resolution to invalidate the existing governments in the South was again called up, he would move to amend it by instructing the Judiciary Committee, that in any bill for Reconstruction reported by them, to insert a proviso that in any election for officers or for the ratification of the Constitutions, the persons voting must be possessed of one of these three qualifications, viz: First—To have served in the army one year or more; second, to have sufficient education to read the Constitution of the United States, and to subscribe his name; third, to be possessed of free hold property to the amount of $250.

The proposed amendment, which is substantially the resolution heretofore offered by him, was ordered to be printed.

The bill to amend the act relating to the formation of Corporations in the District of Columbia was debated until the expiration of the morning hour, when the President announced the special order, but on the motion of Howard, the Senate went into executive session, and when the doors opened, adjourned.

HOUSE.

The House went into a Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, for general debate on the President's message.

The Reconstruction Cammittee reported the following bill, which will be laid before the House on Monday:

Be it enacted, etc., That in Virginia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina, Mississippi, Texas, Florida and Arkansas, there are no civil State governments, and the government in said States respectively shall not be recognized as valid or legal State governments, by the executive or judicial power or authority of the United States.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That a speedy enforcement of the act entitled, "An Act to provide for a more efficient government of the rebel States," passed November 2, 1867, and the several acts supplementary thereto, the General of the army is hereby authorized and required to enjoin, by special orders, upon all officers in command within the several military departments, within the said several States, the execution of all acts authorized by the said several laws afore recited; and remove, by his order, from command any or all of said commanders, and detail other officers of the United States army, not below the rank of Colonel, to perform all duties and exercise all powers authorized by said several acts, to the end that the people of the several States may be speedily recognized as civil governments, republican in the form of States, and be restored to political power in the Union.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That the General of the army shall be authorized to remove any or all civil officers now acting under the provisions of the Governments within said several disorganized States, and appoint others to discharge the duties pertaining to their respective offices; and may do any and all acts which by said several laws above mentioned are authorized by the several commanders of the military departments within said States; and so much of said acts, or any act which authorizes the President to detail commanders to such military departments; and to remove any officer who may be detailed as herein provided, is hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for the President of the United States to order any part of the army and navy to assert, by force of arms, the authority of the said Provisional Governments in said disorganized States, or to oppose or obstruct the authority of the United States, as provided in this act, and the acts to which this is supplementary.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, That any interference by any person with the intent to prevent, by force, the execution of the orders of the General of the army, made in pursuance of this act or the acts aforesaid, shall be held to be a high misdemeanor, and the party guilty thereof shall, upon conviction, be fined not exceeding $5000, and imprisoned not exceeding two years.

Sec. 6. Be it further enacted, That so much of all acts or parts of acts as conflict or are inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

The Senate was in executive session four hours on Stanton's case, but adjourned without a vote.

The vote in the Committee on the reconstruction bill stood: Yeas, Boutwell, Bingham, Farnsworth, Hubbard, Bingham and Raines. Nays, Stevens of Pennsylvania, Brooks and Beck.

Mr. Stevens, it is stated, is decidedly opposed to the bill, and during the consultation wanted some provision adopted by which Congressional representation in the Southern States would be increased to the extent of ten on a wider basis than that which now prevails.

Brazilian Cotton.

The Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer says Mr. Stevens, of Russell county, Ala., raised on ordinary pine land an average of twenty-six hundred pounds in seed cotton from Brazilian seed, of a rich creamy yellow color, very fine fibre, and long staple. Experienced cotton dealers pronounce it worth twice as much as the ordinary upland cotton.

OBITUARY.

BANKS—Died, in Memphis, Tenn, on the evening of the 30th December, 1867, Mrs. Lizzie Banks, wife of Robert Banks, Esq., aged 29 years.

Born in Baltimore, Maryland, passing her childhood in Chillicothe, Ohio; for many years past she resided in this city. Seeking and finding her happiness mainly in the quiet discharge of her domestic duties, she was also kind, loving and social. Her benevolence and sympathy were ever awake to the calls of the suffering. Some three years ago she became the wife of our fellow-citizen, Robert Banks, Esq., to whom her modest, retiring virtues were long known; and more than two years ago, when in health, she publicly professed her faith in Christ, and dedicated her infant child to God in the covenant of his love. The bliss of married life was to her brief and transient, but she sought faithfully to discharge all its duties while it lasted, and was conscious that she had done what she could to render it pleasant and happy. An invalid for more than a year past, from disease of the heart, patience, fortitude and resignation characterized her temper and feelings under all her sufferings, and the sweet hope of Heaven was always her stay and her solace. Not long before her death, recognizing the sweet ties that bind us to earth, she expressed her regret at parting from husband and child, and urged that husband to strive, by precept and example, to bring up that child to be a true follower of the Savior; and to a dear friend she said: "How sweet were the consolations of religion." In the hour of death her words were: "Home, home, home!" May we not indulge the pleasing assurance that the soul's true home, Heaven, was full upon her mind; that the radiance of the Celestial City was beaming upon her quickened vision? Rest, weary one, rest! In that "better country" to which thou art gone, the inhabitant no more says, I am sick. No disease of the heart, physical or spiritual, will ever give thee trouble or pain. All tears are wiped away from thine eyes, and sighing and trouble will no more enter where thou now, through grace, beholdest the glory of God and the Lamb.

Death has no terrors for the Christian's soul,
His sting 's extracted, and his mighty dart
Was blunted by its task on Calvary.

This tribute is by one who cherishes pleasant memories of her mild and gentle ways, and of her warm and generous friendship. S.

PUBLIC SALE
—OF THE—
HOMESTEAD TRACT
—OF—
GEN. SAMUEL J. HAYS,
At Jackson, Tenn.
WE SHALL, through Messrs. ROYSTER, TREZEVANT & CO., Auctioneers, offer at public sale, upon the premises
On Thursday, 16th day of January,
The beautiful and valuable Homestead Tract of the late Gen. SAMUEL J. HAYS, containing 1150 acres of land in and immediately adjacent to the city of Jackson, Tenn., subdivided into Lots and small Tracts, suitable for Residences and small Farms. The Mansion is one of the most elegant and spacious in Tennessee, situated on beautiful and highly ornamented ground. The advantages of Railroad facilities from the two roads now in operation, to be increased by the Vincennes and New Orleans Air Line road, passing through Paducah and connecting with the Mississippi Central at this point, make it a center of commercial and manufacturing importance which has given vitality and growth to Jackson, even under all the depressing influences which have retarded almost every other place in the South. In society and health, Jackson is notoriously one of the most attractive cities in the South.
Terms of Sale.—Third cash; balance in one and two years, with interest, secured by trust deeds.

BUSINESS.—We request that our advertising patrons hand in their favors at the Counting Room by six o'clock p.m., to insure insertion next day. Obituary and Death notices will be received at the Composition Room up to eleven o'clock.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Hereafter individual bills of any employe or proprietor of this paper will not be allowed as an offset against accounts for advertising. All bills against the APPEAL will be paid on presentation, and no bill will be allowed unless contracted by me or by my authority. JOHN AINSLIE, Cashier and Business Manager.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE APPEAL.—Subscribers are requested to report any irregularities in the delivery of the APPEAL at the Counting-room. Carriers will be furnished weekly with certificates authorizing them to collect subscriptions. ED. J. MANSFORD, Superintendent of Circulation.

REMOVAL.

Our friends will remember that the APPEAL BUSINESS OFFICE is now located at No. 13 Jefferson street.

The EDITORIAL ROOMS of the APPEAL have been removed to No. 14 Jefferson street, upstairs, where we will be glad to see our friends at all times.

TO ADVERTISERS.

Those indebted to the APPEAL for advertising, and whose accounts are past due, will please come forward and settle the same by the 15th instant, or they will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection. JOHN AINSLIE, Cashier.

ELDER T. W. CASKEY will preach at the Linden Street Christian Church to day at 11 a.m. and at 7 a.m.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—There will be preaching in this church to-day, morning and evening, at the usual hours, by the pastor, Rev. A. B. Miller.

REV. L. C. RANSOM, pastor, will preach at First Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Court street, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday school at 9 p.m.

THE PRUITT CASE.—The case of the fireman, Thos. Pruitt, was up before Mr. Justice Hall yesterday and will be decided on Tuesday next.

H. P. PACKER, 238½ Main street, has a central location and the best quality of Pittsburg coal. He is one of our oldest dealers and is favorably known as a fair, hightoned and obliging dealer.

DO YOU WANT A FORTUNE?—Go to the office of the Phoenix Insurance Company, 29? Main street, and buy tickets in the "Grand Special Scheme of the Raleigh Springs." Tickets $5.

DESOTO INSURANCE AND TRUST COMPANY.—The attention of the stockholders of the above company is called to the election of directors, which will be held on Monday next.

STEALING IN PINCH.—Complaint was made at Police headquarters yesterday, that Tom Smith and Joe Van Dyke had stolen three mules from E. N. Crowley's and Ben Dudley's stables, on the alley between Overton and Jackson streets.

PERSONAL.—We were pleased yesterday to receive a visit from Maj. Gen. W. B. Bates, of the late Confederate States army. He is putting up at the Gayoso, and will leave for his home at Nashville to-night.

SENT UP.—The young mackerel James O'Brien, charged with stealing a suit of clothes from A. J. Peres on Front street, Thursday last, was examined before Justice Heinrich yesterday and sent to the Criminal Court for trial.

HOTEL DEEUROPE.—The entire furniture of the Hotel DeEurope will be sold under the hammer, to-morrow morning, commencing at 10 o'clock. Amongst the assortment of fine furniture to be sold will be found a superb piano. W. H. Passmore & Co. are the auctioneers.

REWARD.—The sum of fifty dollars' reward will be paid to any person returning the gold-headed ebony cane bearing the inscription, "John Ainslie, Esq., of the Memphis APPEAL. From his friends, January 1, 1868." No questions asked.

STEALING LUMBER.—The negro Sam. Crowan, charged with stealing lumber from the works of the new gas company at Fort Pickering, was, by Justice Miller, yesterday sent to a higher tribunal for judgment. His prospects for a free ride to Nashville are more than good.

WE CALL attention to the card of C. C. Cleaves & Co., corner Monroe and Second streets. They have a large stock of memorandums, blank books, and stationery generally, and say they are selling at low prices, which will pay their consumers for a short walk. Call and see them.

THE following telegrams remain uncalled for in the office: James M. Kellogg, Mary Jennings, E. W. Wickersham, J. J. Murphy, Benj. Babb, C. A. Foster, Price & Yeatman, Mrs. Sophia Gibson, Thos. Leech, Ben. Richmond, J. C. Shallcross.

FOUND.—Information was received by the Chief of Police yesterday that the white girl, Lizzie Perkins, abducted some days since from White's station, had been found in Cincinnati. She is held by the authorities there for a requisition from her parents.

AT THEIR WORK.—A deputation from the numerous gangs of stock thieves who infest our city visited the stables of Mr. Nicholas Malatesta on Friday night and took therefrom a valuable bay mare. No trace of the animal has as yet been got.

COUNTY REGISTER.—As will be seen elsewhere, Col. Martin announces himself as candidate for the office of County Register. The Colonel has been a resident of our city for upwards of twenty years, and we know of no person more worthy of the office nor more competent to discharge its duties.

CAUGHT AT LAST.—A warrant was issued by Mr. Justice Miller yesterday for the arrest of a negro named Joe Bucket, charged with stealing a shot gun, a pistol and a quantity of clothing from Mr. Collins some days since. The accused will be brought up for examination to-morrow.

MESSRS. E. ROBBINS & BRADLEY, 222 Second street, advertise a variety of improved plows to which they call the attention of the public. This is one of the best agricultural and hardware houses in the city. Maj. Barber continues to serve his old friends in this standard and reliable house.

ROBERT A. MOON is one of the oldest and most reliable commission merchants and cotton dealers in our city. None can surpass him in the confidence which he enjoys among the old-time planters. This speaks volumes for him, and is the surest guarantee of correct dealing and business sagacity. We refer to his card for his place of business.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—We were pained to learn yesterday that Mrs. Lee, (the mother-in-law of Gen. R. P. Neely), who resides at Bolivar, fell into the fire yesterday and burned her face and neck very badly. It appears that this venerable matron has for some time past been afflicted with paralysis, and the accident occurred through the carelessness of a servant. Her life is despaired of.

WM. DEMOSS, who performs tonsorial operation in the shop, in the rear of No. 14 Jefferson street, under the APPEAL editorial rooms, makes his bow to the public this morning in verse of his own composition which is sound on the "goose." We happen to know that he has been sound and conservative, both politically and tonsorially, and we hesitate not to pronounce him one of the most reputable and tuneful barbers on these bluffs.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Adjourned Meeting—Election of Officers.

President Swayne called the Board to order.

Present—Mayor J. W. Leftwich, Aldermen Powers, Glancy, Johnson, Joyce, Wickersham, Black, Brown, Cartwright, Holst, O'Donnell, Cicalla, Ruffin, Renner, Lemon, Passmore, Moffitt, McDavitt, Peck and Ellis.

Alderman McDavitt said he had a resolution, which he would explain for the satisfaction of members who would vote upon it: The two squares, Market and Auction, would not require more attention than Court square. The resolution provided one keeper for both squares, the duties, and those of Court square, to be defined hereafter as the Board may determine. It was adopted.

Alderman McDavitt said he had a resolution to offer. We had provided for a Secretary of the Board. His resolution contemplated doing away with the salary.

Alderman O'Donnell asked if the salary of the Treasurer had not been reduced to $2000.

Alderman McDavitt said it was fixed at $4000, including the duties of Secretary. Resolution adopted.

Alderman McDavitt offered a resolution repealing the ordinance appointing a Board of Health and Secretary of the same.

Alderman Ruffin argued against dispensing with the Secretary of the Board of Health. As a matter of economy, that officer should be retained.

Alderman Glancy supported the same side of the question.

Alderman Passmore suggested the withdrawal of the resolution, which was done.

Alderman Johnson had an ordinance fixing the bonds of the officers to be elected. Adopted.

Tax Collector	$50,000
Privilege Tax Collector	25,000
Comptroller	25,000
Treasurer	5,000
Street Commissioner	5,000
Wharfmaster	10,000

Also abolishing the office of Purveyor. Adopted.

NOMINATIONS BY THE MAYOR.

Comptroller—R. D. Baugh.

Alderman Glancy said he understood that the matter had been settled last night.

Alderman Passmore said the gentleman was out of order.

A motion that the vote on the nominations be by ballot was carried. The voted stood: Baugh, 14; Blank, 4; Lofland, 1; Park, 1.

For Register—L. R. Richards. Alderman Ruffin moved that "our friend L. R. Richards be elected by acclamation." He was reminded by the Chair that it would be necessary to suspend the rule. The vote stood: Richards, 20; nays, none.

For Treasurer—William H. Bridges. The vote stood: Bridges, 19; Blank, 1.

For City Attorney—R. J. Morgan. The vote stood: Morgan, 20; nays, none.

For City Engineer—J. H. Humphreys. The vote stood: Humphreys, 17; Foster, 1; Blank, 1; Kenney, 1.

For City Hospital Physician—Dr. J. M. Kellar. The vote stood: Kellar, 13; Blank, 5; Irwin, 2.

For Chief of Fire Department—Wm. Keho. The vote stood: Keho, 18; Blank, 1; Waldraven, 1.

For North Memphis Market Master—Peter Connelly. The vote stood: Connelly, 13; Blank, 5; Arrata, 1; Joyce, 1.

For South Memphis Market Master—C. Bonner, 12; Blank, 5; Utlinger, 1; Loeb, 1; O'Conner, 1.

For City Inspector—Frank Capers. The vote stood: Capers, 10; Green, 3; Burke, 1; Kirwan, 1; Blank, 5.

Alderman Ruffin asked if the Chair had not the privilege of deciding the ballot, even though he should have voted.

Alderman Passmore agreed with the position.

The Chair read the rule, and decided that the vote was lost.

For Lumber Inspector—Martin Bohlen. The vote stood: Bohlen, 18; Blank, 2.

For Keeper of Court Square—Edward Keating, 20; no opposition.

For Keeper of Market and Auction Squares—John Kangers. The vote stood: Kangers, 17; Turner, 2; Blank, 1.

For Sergeant-at-Arms—Chas. Smith, 18; Schooles, 2; not counted, 1.

For Dredgeboat Keeper—John Harvey. The vote stood: Harvey, 17; Blank, 3.

For City Inspector—Edward Kiernan. The vote stood: Kiernan, 6; Green, 4; Capers, 4; Blank, 5; Humphreys, 1. No choice.

For City Inspector—A. C. Kerwin. The vote stood: Kerwin 2, Green 5, Capers 4, Blank 6, Kiernan 2, Burke 1.

For City Inspector—J. H. Cash. The vote stood: Cash 3, Blank 6, Capers 5, Green 4, Burke 1, W. F. Green 1.

The Mayor had made several nominations upon the recommendations of good men. The last he himself knew. He referred to the attempt of the United States Senate to control the President of the United States. He stood in the same attitude to the Board. He alluded to the close ballot, and his open expression of his opinions. He had been forced to the position he occupied against his will and interests, although it was one of which he was proud. He was no candidate for re election. He had made nominations for what he considered for the best interests of the city, and did not like to be hampered by opposition from those who wished to push in their own favorites.

Alderman Powers moved that the Mayor make another nomination and that the Board support it.

The Mayor then re nominated Joseph H. Cash for City Inspector. The vote stood: Cash, 14; Green, 1; Blank, 3; Burke, 1; Capers, 1.

Alderman Passmore offered a resolution that the Finance Committee be instructed, together with the City Attorney, to make a thorough examination of the contract between the city and the Merchants' National Bank, whereby the city paid over to the said Bank one hundred thousand dollars in scrip and the city's note for fifty thousand dollars as collateral for the sum of fifty thousand dollars, to be loaned the city for six months, and report to the next meeting of the Board, together with the exact amount paid over to the city by the Bank.

By same—That the Mayor be and he is hereby requested not to issue any more scrip after the passage of this resolution, until the Finance Committee reports upon some system of cancelling scrip more secure to the city than has hitherto been adopted.

These resolutions were adopted.

Alderman McDavitt offered a resolution relative to loose property of the city. Referred to the Improvement Committee.

Alderman Passmore—A resolution that the City Attorney be directed to obtain from the different courts city scrip and coupons upon which judgments have been obtained, and return to the Comptroller to be cancelled. Adopted.

Alderman Ruffin reported on the bonds of R. Good, Wharfmaster, and others, to be filled according to the requirement of the ordinance. Adopted.

The chair announced that the Mayor wished, as he would be absent from the city for some time, to name an ad interim during his absence.

Leave of absence being granted, Alderman McDavitt was appointed Mayor pro tempore.

Alderman Johnson presented a petition from Mrs. Zimmerman. Referred.

A motion to adjourn was lost.

Alderman Glancy—A resolution to distribute $1000 to the poor for this month.

Alderman Wickersham moved its reference to the Finance Committee.

Alderman Glancy sustained his resolution, and objected to the reference.

Alderman Passmore rose to a point of inquiry: whether the $1000, already ordered had been distributed. The answer: it had been.

The motion of reference was lost.

Alderman Passmore understood that the Board could not appropriate more than $500 if the money were not in the Treasury.

The amount was reduced to $500, as the Treasurer said the money was not in the Treasury.

Alderman McDavitt was as ready as any to relieve the needy from his own pocket, but was unwilling to vote away any money, when many were unable to pay their taxes. He alluded to the difficulties the Finance Committee had to encounter.

Alderman Glancy hoped that no gentleman of the Board would refuse to vote $500. He alluded to the suffering poor.

Alderman Wickersham was for sustaining the poor and needy. A year ago the Board was spending $500 a day for benevolent purposes. Every sort of charity was besought. On investigation the amount was considerably razeed. He alluded to the frauds practiced, and even boarding house keepers were applicants for charity. A new system should be devised for dispensing charity.

Alderman Johnson offered a substitute that the Aldermen ascertain and report the needy in their respective wards—ayes, 11; nays, 8.

Alderman Ruffin moved the reconsideration.

Alderman Passmore thought it was imposing too much labor on the members of the Board, who had enough to do to legislate.

Alderman O'Donnell sustained the substitute, as it was the duty of the Aldermen to inquire as to the fact of applicants for relief and report the same.

Alderman Johnson spoke to the same effect.

Alderman Passmore thought it was imposing too much duty on the Board, and moved to lay the substitute on the table.

Ayes—Glancy, Joyce, Brown, Cartwright, O'Donnell, Cicallo, Ruffin, Renner, Lemon, Passmore, McDavitt, Ellis and Peak—14.

Nays—Powers, Johnson, Wickersham, Black and Holst—5.

The question being on the appropriation of $500, Alderman Wickersham spoke to the subject, and moved its reference to a special committee to inquire and report the amount required to be appropriated.

Alderman McDavitt referred to a loss of a fine dress abstracted by one asking charity. He said they were too fond of voting away other people's money.

Alderman Powers thought his colleague was earnest in his urgency in this matter, and had many applications for relief.

Alderman McDavitt offered a substitute that each Alderman donate one-half of his salary for this year, to be distributed in charity. There were thirteen in the affirmative, O'Donnell, Cicalio, Ruffin, Renner and Ellis voting in the negative.

Alderman Wickersham moved that each alderman might spend one-half of his salary as he sees proper.

The subject was referred to a special committee of one from each ward.

Alderman Passmore—Resolution that applicants to go to the Hospital obtain a permit from Mayor or Board of Health. Adopted.

Alderman Brown presented requisition of Dr. J. M. Kellar for provisions, fuel and medicines for Hospital, and reported in favor of granting it.

A motion to refer brought up Alderman Ruffin, who objected to its reference as the articles were actually needed.

Alderman Passmore urged that the Chair appoint a Hospital Committee.

Alderman Wickersham thought it would be best to go to the committee.

Alderman Johnson said the requisition was too large.

Alderman Passmore wished to know how he obtained his information.

Alderman Johnson said he judged so.

Alderman Johnson said that late last spring 1000 barrels coals had been sent there.

Alderman Ruffin adverted to the large number of patients in the hospital, and the necessity of immediate relief.

Alderman Glancy said the members had not been at the hospital inside of a year. He moved for a committee.

Alderman Wickersham opposed the granting of the requisition. It should go to the Committee.

Alderman Passmore wondered if the gentleman from the Third Ward had been at the hospital? This was no time to cavil over prices. Dr. Keller was an honorable man, and would not ask for what was not wanted. The requisition was not too large, and should be granted without caviling.

The large crowd attending applauded the animated speech of the Alderman, when he referred to the objections of Aldermen to the requisition.

Alderman Johnson only asked that one-half of the requisition be granted now, and the rest at the end of the month. The requisition was again read.

Alderman Passmore continued his argument, and showed that it was necessary to grant the requisition without delay.

Alderman McDavitt said that Dr. Kellar had got twenty bushels coal to-day, and was willing to do with as little as possible till the supply of fuel here shall be augmented.

Alderman Johnson moved to amend by reducing the amount of coal one-half. Lost.

The requisition was granted.

Alderman O'Donnell—a resolution that the Street Commissioner improve the alley in rear of Howard's Row. Adopted.

Alderman Wickersham—resolution that all medicines belonging to the city in the late Dispensaries, be taken charge of by the Board of Health.

A substitute that they be turned over to the Hospital.

By same—Various officers, appointed by this Board, on entering on their duties, take an inventory of the city property in their possession and report the same to the Treasurer. Adopted.

Alderman Passmore moved the appointment of a Hospital Committee—Johnson, Brown, Cartwright, Lemon and Moffitt.

Adjourned until Tuesday evening—the regular meeting.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.—On the 10th the Commissioners ordered the reduction of the ferry license of S. B. Hanna from $150 to $100, and that C. F. Griffin and S. B. Hanna be requested to pay license and rectify their bond within ten days, and for failure said license will be revoked, and legal proceedings commenced. The resignation of Joseph Brooks was received, and Robert L. Duke appointed in his place. The part of the road commencing at Mr. Rhodes' place, running eastwardly, was added to the district of overseer Woodson. Mrs. Flournoy's petition for assessment was referred. Twelve dollars was appropriated to B. F. Boone as a juror. The sum of $30,000 was appropriated to Joseph J. Powers for completing the county jail, which is to be finished and turned over to the Commissioners for county use by the first of March next; and that $20,000 of the sum shall not be sold or put on the market until possession be given for the use of the county. The warrants are to be equally divided into denominations of $500, $250 and $100 each. The Board will meet again on Monday the 13th inst.

GRAND CONCERT.—It is noticeable that we have had fewer concerts in this city during the present season than at any time for several years. Some of the leading amateurs of Memphis have projected a grand concert, for the benefit of St. Mary church's, (Episcopal) Poplar street, to come off on Thursday evening next, at the Greenlaw Opera House. We learn that the amateur talent of the city will be in requisition, on this occasion, and that some things not laid down in the programme will be brought out, which will be a decided feature of the occasion. St. Mary's church is a free chapel. There is no pew-rent, and it depends upon voluntary contributions for its support. In these pinching times, contributions are not as free as is required to meet the expenses of the church. For this reason it is necessary to appeal to the taste and liberality of our citizens, who will be more than repaid by the magnificent music with which they will be entertained. We trust to witness such a response as is worthy of the occasion.

PERSONS TO BE ENCOURAGED.—The colored men whose names are mentioned below voted the Conservative ticket openly, at the late election. We hope they may receive the patronage, support and encouragement of our citizens; and that they may be employed in preference to those who voted to continue the disfranchisement of white men: William De Moss, barber, Jefferson street; Nick Alexander, barber, on Court street, between Main and Front; Ned Adams, barber, on Main below Union; Marengo Johnson, Bob Mitchell, Wm. Hutchins, Wesley Littlejohn, Edw. Crawford, Edw. Sneed, Monroe Parham, Sam Croghan, Dennis Notrebe, Wm. Foster, Harry Brown. If other names are furnished us upon reliable authority, we shall publish them with pleasure. It is right to applaud and sustain those who merit it.

CALL FOR A CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.—The Conservatives of the different civil districts comprising the county of Shelby, are requested to appoint their delegates to meet in general convention at Greenlaw opera house, in this city, on Saturday 25th January, inst., at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of nominating proper candidates for county offices, to be elected in March ensuing, comprising the Sheriffalty, Clerkship of Common Law and Criminal Courts, Register, Coroner, etc.

By order of the SHELBY COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.
J. M. KEATING, Secretary.
Memphis, January 11, 1868.

LAUNDRY, 40 Jefferson street: Gents' wear, $1 25 per dozen; ladies' $1 50—all plain work.

JOHN A. DICKINSON, Irving Block, is selling his entire stock of furniture, carpetings, oil cloths and bedding at cost for cash.

AMUSEMENTS.

NEW MEMPHIS THEATER.—The Matinee.—Yesterday afternoon's performance, the Lady of Lyons, did not draw a large but a very respectable audience, among which the ladies predominated. The play was admirably put on the stage and the characters well represented. The reading of Bulwer's beautiful poetry was classical in the extreme, by Mr. Booth, and in action he was grace personified. If we found fault with a single line, it was that he did not read the line thus:

"We'd seek what star should be our home."

But then doctors will differ. The audience were pleased, and as it was a mere matter of taste, perhaps we should not object.

The Night Performance.—If the house was slim in the afternoon, it was overflowing at night to see Richard the Third, in which Mr. Booth was truly grand. We have seen many men in the part, but the Junior takes the lead. Frank Roche done a very good "Richmond." The other characters do not call for especial notice. On Monday night Hamlet will be presented. This is one of Booth's great characters and should draw a full house.

PLEASURES OF THE SEASON.—On Friday we met an individual going along the street with a pair of skates dangling at the ends of his fingers. We asked if he had found "good skating." "Not very," was the reply, and he informed us he had "broken through the ice up to the neck." His clothes bore the signs of being well starched, and as stiff as a petit maitre's shirt collar.

THE VARIETIES.—The above theater was well patronized last night. The singing of Maude Dalasco and Tony Benton was much appreciated, while Miss Helen de Vere never fails to please. Miss Wharton and the ballet troupe, with the character acting of Oscar Willis, Hart and Smith, give universal satisfaction.

THE CIRCUS.—The combination show of Dan. Castello and Van Amburgh made a full street parade yesterday morning and showed during the afternoon and evening to excellent houses.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—Yesterday, having occasion to purchase some wearing apparel, for even we poor Bohemians need such, we called on our old friends, Reid & Bro., and we were compelled by astonishment to ask why he sold his at such a sacrifice, when he informed us that he did so to keep the Sheriff from selling him out; that he would have to raise a considerable sum in the next twenty days, and hoped that all his old friends would come forward if they wish to purchase at lower prices than could be found anywhere else in the city. We can only say that we think No. 15 Jefferson street, the cheapest place in the city to get ready-made clothing.

BANKS.—Yesterday rumors were circulated freely to the effect that some of our banks were short of currency. We cannot, under the present state of our financial market, see how our banks and business houses can "worry" through the extremely depressed state of affairs. Our bankers are all men of means and integrity. Yet, business men and banking institutions with the largest real assets may have to succumb. The sooner our people realize this fact, the better.

Relief and Health to your Infants.

We have put up and sold this article for years and can say in confidence and truth of it what we never have been able to say of any other medicine: Never has it failed in a single instance to effect a cure when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operation, and speak in terms of commendation of its medical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "what we do know," after years of experience, and pledge our reputation for the fulfilment of what we here declare. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the Syrup is administered.

Full directions for using will accompany each bottle.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

The weather was more moderate yesterday, though cold enough for an overcoat. Our streets and levees were muddy. The Mississippi is again closed between Cairo and St. Louis, but this time it is caused by the ice. It is reported frozen over above Cairo with one gorge below St. Louis and another above Alton. The Ohio was reported rising rapidly by our dispatches of Friday night from the headwaters to Louisville. White river is on a stand. The Arkansas is also doing nothing for good or evil, and has but thirty inches to Pine Bluff. At this place the Mississippi is rising at the rate of one and a half inches per hour with considerable drift in the channel. The American Union of Chattanooga of the 10th says: For the twenty-hours ending at six o'clock last evening, the Tennessee river had risen fifty-five inches. At that hour the river was still rising. The quantity of melted snow that will still come down from the mountain will have the effect of still further increasing the rise. The water is within fifteen feet of the top of the river banks opposite the city, and it is not probable that it will rise sufficiently to overflow its banks.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Vicksburg got away last night for New Orleans with 1600 bales of cotton.

The Guidon came in from the Arkansas with 482 bales of the staple, 341 of which she shipped on the Vicksburg.

The Louisville got 1000 bales and the Richmond 750 bales for Louisville, and departed last night.

The Mollie Hambleton leaves for St. Francis river on Tuesday. Capt. Bowman commands, and Messrs. Paine, Clark and Shell are clerks.

The address of the Maine Shipbuilders' Association to the people of Maine is not a very brilliant document, but it contains one statement of fact to which we direct attention: "Our tonnage is reduced one-half, while other nations have vastly increased theirs; and the present operations in our shipyards are insufficient to keep up even this small amount. Many yards lie idle, and grass has grown where formerly was the busiest tread of the workmen; and the ability of our maritime community to contribute in relief of the national burdens is thus materially reduced."

The Southerner, Capt. Dick Mason, with Dr. Clay Rice and Alex. Stewart in the office, will be in port to-day, and leave for New Orleans on Monday at 5 p.m. She is a good cotton boat.

The fine steamer B. L. Hodge, Capt. Montgomery, is the regular Tuesday packet for New Orleans. She gets away at 5 p.m. Messrs. Johnson and Green are clerks.

The Silver Moon came in yesterday evening from Cincinnati.

The towboat Baltic left Pittsburg on Thursday with a tow of coal for the lower river.

The Allie Sullivan struck a snag above New Harmony in the Wabash river a few days ago and knocked a hole in her hull. The J. P. Webb struck a rock on the chain in the same river, which tore here side out. Both boats were taken to Evansville for repairs.

The Emperor left Cincinnati on Wednesday last with 1400 barrels salt among her cargo, for this port.

The Lawrence goes to Pittsburg from Cincinnati instead of to the Arkansas.

The Flicker is running from New Orleans to Shreveport. The Southwester says she has new officers on board who evidently came from "up country," as she carries no papers.

Barrel freights from New Orleans to Shreveport run from $8 to $6; cotton, $7 50 per bale; passage $40.

The towboat Dexter, sunk by the ice in the Alleghany river during the recent freshet, has been raised. She is not very badly damaged.

The Mate, fully loaded, sunk at "Nine Mile Ripple," in Wabash river, was soon raised, and with a barge proceeded above, and when six miles below Vincennes, struck a snag with her barge, sinking it. Part of the freight was saved. Loss, $300.

Charley Merry has had a hard time with his new enterprise of towing grain in bulk from Dubuque to New Orleans. On reaching St. Louis with his tow the underwriters caused a detention of several days. In that time the river fell so that his boat, the Ocean Wave, and barges, got aground causing an additional loss of about two weeks times besides knocking a hole in the Wave. He succeeded in reaching Cairo with half his tow and on his return to St. Mary's for the balance the Ocean Wave ... burst a steam pipe and lost a few more days. After getting all his tow together at Cairo he again started for the promised land but found that his towboat was not powerful enough, besides being injured too badly to proceed. He landed below Cairo and went back to that point, where he purchased the towboat Ike Hammett, with which he again essayed to reach the Crescent City, but ran into and sunk the steamer Empire bound from Louisville to this port. He passed Memphis a few days ago, and it is to be hoped that the bad beginning made may fulfill the end which it is said they do, and that Charley's chapter of accidents have at last reached a finis.

The Cincinnati bridge is becoming a serious impediment to steamers. The Emperor and Kenton had their chimneys knocked overboard by it on Thursday. This makes the third time that the Emperor has lost her chimneys at that point.

The steamer Norman sunk in White river, about forty miles below Jacksonport, on Tuesday night last, in five feet water. She was insured for $12,000, and can be raised.

It is determined to run this year six steamers of the late Dubuque and St. Paul line between St. Louis and St. Paul, in opposition to the Northern Line.

The floating derrick carried away at Louisville by the high water belonged to the contractors of the Ohio River Bridge company, and involved a loss to them of only $1000.

Smallwood on the 4th of December 1866, and recorded in the Register's office of Shelby county, in book No. 58, part 2, pages 369, 370, 371 and 372 for the purpose of securing the payment of certain notes therein specified to said White, and the interest on the same, the interest due December 4, 1867, not having been paid, I shall, proceed to sell, at public auction, at the front door of the Law Courtroom, on Second street, in Memphis, at 10 o'clock a.m., to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property, to-wit: one acre of land in lot six, being a belt the full length of the said lot six, between parallel lines, and bounded on the one side by the division line between said lot six and lot seven in the survey and plan of the town of Farmville, and south of the Raleigh plankroad and fronting on the Farmville road, and which plan and survey of the town of Farmville is of record in Shelby county. Also, lot number seven, in said survey or plan of said town of Farmville, containing three acres, more or less. The equity of redemption is waived and the title is supposed to be good, but I sell only as trustee.

On the 22d Day of January, 1868,

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, }
MEMPHIS, January 11, 1868. }

Currency has not improved in volume since our last, though our banks have an ample supply for the removal of cotton. Preparations were made during the day for liberal offerings of exchange on Monday. Rates are much the same as on yesterday. Buying on New York and New Orleans at ½c discount, and on outside points at ⅜c discount. Selling at par, with once and a while an exceptional sale at easier rates.

Gold opened in New York at 138 and at 10:30 had advanced ⅛c. The closing rate will be found in another column. Brokers offered during the day 136 to 137c. Selling at New York quotations.

The lowest price for gold for 1867 was 132, January 3d, and the highest 146⅜, September 12th, a range of only 14⅝ per cent, and the smallest since suspension. Even in 1862, the first year gold became an article of merchandise, it fluctuated 37¾ per cent. In 1864 the range was 133¾ per cent, (151⅞ to 285,) and in 1865 the range reached 100¾ per cent, but that was a downward grade from 234¼ in January to 128¾ in May, and up again to 140 in November.

The inquiry for City scrip is active. There is none upon the market except what is held by brokers who are not willing to sell. The selling rate is irregular—48, 50 and 52c were offered during the day and refused. Sales of a few small warrants took place at 60c.

County Warrants are in moderate demand at 65c buying. Selling at 68 to 70c.

Police Scrip is inactive at 80c buying. Selling at 84 to 85c.

The Liverpool cotton market was firmer at the opening to-day, with Middlings 7¾@7⅞d, Orleans 7⅞d, and at 3 p.m. was firm—Middlings 7⅞d, Orleans unchanged. Sales, 12,000 bales. In New York the opening holders were asking higher rates and market very firm. Middlings 16⅞c, Orleans 17¼c. At noon the demand was good and prices tending upwards, and at the close there was a fair demand and prices firm, Middlings 16⅞@16¾c; other grades the same. Sales for the day, 3000 bales. Week's sales, 24,000 bales. Week's receipts, 29,000 bales. Exports for the week, 12,000 bales. Stock on hand, 55,000 bales. The inquiry here was even more active than on Friday, but holders were equally as firm and in their views were above those of buyers. The Liverpool buyers in this market have withdrawn as they can see no margin at present prices, but spinners' agents are filling orders as fast as tables are uncovered. The sales for the day foot up—something over 1000 bales, and market closed firm:

February 15, 1868,

Under the direct auspices of the following well known Citizens of Memphis:

DIRECTORS.

N. CORONNA, Pres't German National Bank;
JOHN S. TOOF, of Toof, Phillips & Co.;
W. L. STEWART, late of W. L. Stewart Bros.;
ROLFE S. SAUNDERS, U. S. Collector;
R. R. PITTMAN, of R. R. Pittman & Co.;
GEO. H. LEGUERE, of Ward & Leguere.

N. CORONNA, Treasurer.
DEPOSITORY German National Bank
F. Y. ROCKETT Financial Secretary.

$34,500 IN PREMIUMS.

NUMBER of PRIZES, 25.
CERTIFICATES, $5 EACH.
A Fortune or a Homestead for $5.
CAPITAL PRIZE VALUED AT $20,000 00.

Which amount has recently been offered for the Springs and Grounds immediately surrounding.

PRIZE NO. 1.

The celebrated Raleigh Mineral Springs, situated on the confines of Raleigh, late County Seat of Shelby county, Tenn., nine miles northeast of Memphis, and two miles from Wells' Station, on the Memphis and Louisville Railroad. These Springs are six and number, of various mineral and medicinal qualities, and are visited every Summer by thousands of seekers of health and pleasure, from all quarters of the country. They are within a few steps of the village of Raleigh, in a beautiful valley, and also within a few hundred feet of Wolf river, which winds around the base of the eminence on which the village of Raleigh is situated, and empties into the "Father of Waters" at Memphis. Numerous remarkable cures of various diseases have been experienced by sojourners at this health-inspiring retreat, and the present proprietor, Col. J. M. Coleman, can produce hundreds of certificates of cures in cases which had been entirely given over by medical skill. The ground surrounding the Springs, and in fact the entire village of Raleigh, rises to an eminence of pure air, and is as remarkable for its healthfulness as beauty of location. The Springs are in fine order, never failing, and are designated as follows:

MARBLE SPRING,
BOX SPRING,
MAGNOLIA SPRING,
ARSENIC SPRING,
SULPHUR SPRING,
FREESTONE SPRING.

The place has never been visited by epidemic of any kind, and peculiarly characteristic of its healthfulness is the longevity of the inhabitants. The oldest citizens of Shelby county are residents of Raleigh.

The Springs are as much resorted to by pleasure seekers as by invalids, owing to beauty of scenery and various artificial as well as natural attractions. Connected with the Springs are a Pavilion, Ladies' Bowling Alley, Rustic Arbors, Reading Saloon, Gents' Bowling Alley, Saloon, Billiard Room, Gymnasiums, Refreshment Tables, etc., while Wolf river affords excellent Boating and Fishing.

The ground accompanying the Springs, in the above scheme and included in the First Prize, is fifteen acres in extent, overlooking the valley and affords in addition to a magnificent site for a grand hotel and other buildings; splendid facilities for a park, promenades, etc.

An analysis of the several Springs, by distinguished medical men, shows that they are unsurpassed in mineral and curative properties by any in the United States. There is no reason then why Raleigh should not become as famous as Saratoga, Sharon or Lebanon, and as largely patronized. It needs only capital and enterprise to accomplish this end.

A charter is before the State Legislature for the incorporation of the Springs, and a movement has been inaugurated looking to direct rail communication with Memphis.

For this prize, $20,000 was recently offered, which was declined in order that the above scheme may be fully carried out.

PRIZE NO 2.

The elegant country mansion house and lot residence of Col. J. M. Coleman is within a few yards of the Springs. The house is in first class order, contains 10 rooms and is beautifully embowered in shrubbery. The lot is well fenced and ornamented with fine shade and fruit trees, and affords all necessary outhouses, cisterns, etc. It is midway between the village and Spring Valley, on the main promenade. Value $8000.

PRIZE NO. 3.

One thousand dollars in cash.

PRIZE NO. 4 TO 25.

Twenty-two cottage lots valued at $250 each. These lots are a portion of the village of Raleigh, delightfully situated, all fronting on thoroughfares and will be drawn with the understanding that the winners shall have free access at all times to the Springs and belongings.

Details of the Drawing.

Six thousand and seven hundred tickets, representing the certificates issued, will be placed in one wheel, and the same number of blanks, including twenty-five inscribed with the names of the premiums, will be placed in another. From these wheels tickets will be drawn at the same time, and the number drawn will take the premium drawn simultaneously.

All moneys received upon the sale of these shares will be placed in the German National Bank of Memphis, and will remain there to the credit of the Association until the drawing takes place.

Our Latest Improved NEW SCALE PIANO-FORTE.

GROVESTEEN & CO.,

499 Broadway, N. Y.,

THESE instruments, after the most flattering testimonials from the first Pianists in the country, who, at our solicitation, have tested them in the severest manner possible, have been pronounced THE FINEST SQUARE PIANO-FORTE MADE IN THE WORLD.

It has always been our policy, during the thirty-six years that we have manufactured Pianos, twelve thousand of which are now in use in the United States and Europe, to give the finest instrument at the lowest cost. Our superior facilities enable us to offer them from one to three hundred dollars less than any other First Class House.

The tone of these instruments are remarkable for their peculiar Sweetness and Great Brilliancy, never losing their quality when forced to their utmost capacity. The lower register retaining its positiveness, does not destroy the middle and upper registers by mingling with them in disagreeable confusion, the refined beauty of tone being equally delightful to the unpracticed and to the most cultivated ear.

They are an entirely new style of Piano, finished in the most superb manner, with four full round corners front and back, heavily carved legs and Lyre Serpentine Base richly moulded, and each instrument is fully warranted for five years. sep5 d&wly

KAVANAGH & DECKER'S BILLIARD TABLES

THE most reliable Cushion used on Billiard Tables is the

Cat-Gut Cushion,

Manufactured by KAVANAGH & DECKER, and patented December 18, 1866. (See Scientific American, Vol. 16, No. 1.)

It is the only Cushion that possesses all the qualities essential to a Perfect Cushion. It is the most elastic and most durable Cushion ever offered to the billiard-playing public, as is abundantly proven by the great demand for it since its introduction. The peculiarity which distinguishes the Cat-Gut Cushion and renders it superior to all others, is the tightened cord of cat-gut which overlies the face and edge of the rubber and running the full length of the cushion, which prevents the ball from bedding into the rubber and jumping from the tables. The addition of the cat-gut cord also adds much to the elasticity of the Cushion.

The Cat-Gut Cushion has already been applied to over 1000 tables, which are in constant use. It can be applied to tables of any make, for $75 per set.

Cavanagh & Decker's Factory, at the corner of Centre and Canal streets, N. Y., is the most complete of its kind in the world. The machinery is of the most improved character, the lumber drying room the largest in the United States, the material used the best that can be purchased, and the workmen thoroughly skilled.

Billiard Cloth, Balls, Cues and Trimmings, all of the best make, constantly on hand.

Kavanagh & Decker are the only agents in this country for Key's Cue Cement adjudged by competent authorities to be the best Cement ever used.

Full size Tables cut down for $100.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

It is authentically stated that one-fifth of the inhabitants of this country and Europe die of Consumption. No disease has been more thoroughly studied, and its nature less understood; there is no disease upon which exists a greater diversity of opinion, and no disease which has more completely baffled all medical skill and remedial agencies.

Some of the prominent symptoms are Cough, Expectoration, Shortness of Breath, Irritation about the Lungs and Chest, darting Pains in the Sides and Back, Emaciation, and general negative condition of the whole system.

Persons suffering with this dread disease, or any of its concomitants, should lose no time in possessing themselves of the proper Remedy in order that they may stay its ravages, and be restored to health. The

Rev. A. E. Wilson's

Prepared Prescription for the Cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis,
COUGHS, COLDS,
And all Throat and Lung Affections,

By the use of which he was restored to health in a few weeks, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection and that dread disease, Consumption, has now been in use over ten years with the most marked success.

This remedy is prepared from the original Recipe, chemically pure, by the Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, 165 South Second street, Williamsburgh, Kings county, New York.

A pamphlet containing the original prescription with full and explicit directions for preparation and use, together with a short history of his case, with symptoms, experience and cure, can be obtained (free of charge) of Mr. Wilson, as above, or by calling on or addressing

FOUNT AND FLOWER.

INSCRIBED TO MISS IRIS C——, OF MEMPHIS.

The zephyrs in the woodbine shade
Whispered low, whispered low,
The dainty blossoms, half afraid,
Trembled so, trembled so;
Thy sweet voice, like the zephyrs mild,
Whispered low, whispered low,]
My captive heart in tumult wild,
Trembled so, trembled so.

Yon golden star threw on the night
Sparklets clear, sparklets clear,
The moss-fringed fount gleamed in its light,
And thought it near, and thought it near;
Like brilliant stars thy holy eyes
Beaming clear, beaming clear,
Shone on my life;—in glad surprise
I thought thee near, thought thee near.

But zephyr in the woodbine bower,
Fluttered off with sunbeams gay,
Unconscious all of the timid flower
Pining away, pining away;
Thy sweet voice with its silvery tone
Caroled gay, caroled gay,
Unconscious of my poor heart's moan,
Fainting away, fainting away.

The golden star whirled down the sky
In crystal light, crystal light,
The fountain murmuring bitterly,
Stood in sight, stood in sight;
Thy lucid eyes sought not my soul,
In loving light, in loving light,
Despair's dark cloud had o'er me rolled,
And brought me night, black night.

Noon Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, January 11.—In the Supreme Court yesterday Stanberry objected to arguing the case of McCardle, maintaining the constitutionality of the Reconstruction act on the ground that he had written opinions maintaining the other side of the question. The matter has been deferred.

The House Foreign Committee will consider the bill declaring the status of American citizens abroad next Thursday.

The President reports that numbers of persons are pardoned who have been convicted of counterfeiting, forging, etc., but Congress will endeavor to show that no criminal was pardoned not deserving Executive clemency, and many of those pardons were warmly indorsed by Congressmen.

An official document gives a statement of the amount of United States bonds issued under act of Congress to the Pacific railroad. The following are the figures: Union Pacific, $8,160,000; Union Pacific, eastern division, $4,880,000; Atchison and Pike's Peak branch, $640,000; Western Pacific, $320,000; Central Branch of the Union Pacific, $640,000; Central Pacific, $6,074,000. The aggregate is $20,714,000. On these bonds interest has been paid to the amount of $853,868.

Books of the Treasury also show that various roads have been allowed $322,900 for army transportation, and $45,130 for carrying mails. The report of one commissioner to Congress shows the tonnage and value of freight transported during the year ending March 1, 1867, across Illinois—westward meridian, Chicago, from which it appears there were transported, over eight railroads, running eastward, 3,258,000 tons of freight valued at $235,000,000; to westward, 1,345,000 tons, valued at $11,000,000, the combined movement amounting to the enormous aggregate of $4,700,30[redacted] tons freight, valued at $646,000,000, an amount equal nearly to two-third[redacted] the entire foreign commerce of the country.

ATLANTA, January 11.—A letter f[redacted] Senator Sherman was read in the C[redacted] vention to-day, saying that the Conv[redacted] tion should have no fears, but go ahe[redacted] and that if additional legislation is need[redacted] it would be furnished.

Gen. Meade addressed the Conventi[redacted] and said that he was sent there to adm[redacted] ister the Reconstruction acts, which w[redacted] the law, until otherwise decided by co[redacted] petent authority, and should do it fa[redacted] fully for the best interests of the peo[redacted] He said that it was the popular imp[redacted] sion that he was bound to enforce [redacted] legislation of the Convention, but [redacted] prior to the adoption of the new Co[redacted] tution, such legislation was not v[redacted] The laws gave him discretionary pow[redacted] and might, therefore, enforce some m[redacted] ures, especially any well digested sch[redacted] of relief.

A movement will shortly be mad[redacted] the Convention on the question of [redacted] right of negro delegates and certain [redacted] cently arrived Northern men to seats [redacted] the ground that they are not leg[redacted] qualified citizens of Georgia. A res[redacted] tion requesting Congress to empower [redacted] Convention to meet State officers [redacted] appoint successors, was passed by a la[redacted] vote. It is designed as an expression [redacted] want of confidence in Gen. Meade.

A delegation of influential Alaban[redacted] Conservatives arrived to-night to conf[redacted] with Meade.

DUBLIN, January 10.—A man nam[redacted] Senor, a Prominent Fenian, charg[redacted] with high treason, it is confidently asserted, is the person who lead the rising at Tallaght last spring.

Mr. Piggett, of Dublin, an Irishman, has been examined and will be tried on the charge of publishing certain alleged libels and reprinting articles from the Irish American.

HALIFAX, January 10.—The clerks of the Magnetic Telegraph Company here have been arrested and lodged in jail, charged with Fenianism.

The Florence (Italian) Budget calls for the adoption of a French tax of $190,000,000 livres; in addition to the present revenue, and the authorization of a new loan of $400,000,000 livres.

ALEXANDRIA, EGYPT, January 9. Advices from Colonel Meriwether, of the British Abyssinian expedition, has been received, stating that bands of natives, supposed to be hostile, were prowling around the English camp at Lenafee. In consequence of this manifestation, orders have been issued for all European troops temporarily stationed at Annerty Bay and different points along the line of march to the interior to advance to the front and join headquarters at Lenafee.

New Arrangements for Selling Postage Stamps.

Postmaster Kelley is perfecting arrangements for the sale of postage stamps by druggists, stationers and others, at convenient points throughout New York city.

Each person who is authorized to sell stamps signs an agreement containing the following provisions:

First—He agrees not to sell a larger amount than five dollars ($5) worth of all denominations on the same day to or for any one person.

Second—He agrees not to sell at less than Government rates to any person.

Third—He agrees not to purchase, or cause to be purchased, stamps or stamped envelopes from any other source than the Postmaster at New York.

Fourth—He agrees to provide himself with a letter balance with which to weigh letters, and also a schedule stating the rates of domestic and foreign postage.

Fifth—He agrees to report monthly to the Third Assistant Postmaster General the amount of sale of postage stamps and stamped envelopes made by him.

Sixth—He will display a suitable sign, for the information of the public, that postage stamps and stamped envelopes are sold at his place of business.

Preparation for Civil War.

The following incendiary appeal appeared, a few mornings ago in the New Orleans Tribune:

"Convention of Louisiana, you have rebel organizations in your midst. You know it. Organize at once a loyal armed force for the impartial protection of our citizens. It is a principle in military art that to each detail or organization of the enemy posted in any one place an equal number of soldiers of your own be sent to neutralize the enemy. Act upon that principle. Authorize the organization of companies of loyal men who have se[redacted] in the Union army to neutralize the [redacted] rebel organizations that are only ps[redacted] military, it is true, but there are som[redacted] them ready to appear again in arm[redacted] put down Union men as they did a[redacted] very institute where you hold your[redacted] sions to-day."

A Fossil Man—A Remarkable Disco[redacted]

While some workmen were rec[redacted] making some excavations in the ne[redacted] borhood of Corydon, Harrison cou[redacted] they came upon the petrified body [redacted] man, perfect in all its proportions. [redacted] arms, stark and stiff, were folded [redacted] the breast, and were as firm as the [redacted] stone. It has created a great de[redacted] excitement in that part of the cou[redacted] and hundreds are flocking to see [redacted] wonderful curiosity. The body is [redacted] large, and bears unmistakable indications of having belonged to one of the early races which inhabited this continent. He was perhaps a mound builder, and lived, and loved, and roamed the forests before the Miamis or the Iroquois had made them their happy hunting grounds.—New Albany (Indiana) Commercial.

A CHAPLAIN in Arkansas says that a man buying furs was conversing with a woman, at whose house he called, and asked her if there were any Presbyterians around there. She hesitated for a moment, and said she guessed not—"her husband hadn't killed any since they lived there."

NOTICE—STOP THE THIEF—$20 REWARD.—Strayed or stolen from my place, three miles north of Lafayette Station, Memphis and Charleston Railroad, on Tuesday night, the 10th of December, 1867, a black Mustang or Pony Horse, 7 years old next spring, brown mane and tail, few burrs in both when left, shoes on both fore feet, with saddle and harness marks, etc. I will give the above reward for the delivery of the thief and horse, or I will give $10 for the delivery of the horse to me, or any satisfactory information given liberally rewarded.
